Two Lines of People Four Abreast Move Past Catafalque Where Lies Body of George V in Old Westminster Hall in London; Line in Streets More Than Mile Long

Canadian Press and Associated Press
London, Jan. 24.—The first of 1,000,000 sorrowing pilgrims filed to-day past the bier of King George V—a black catafalque, approached on purple-carpeted steps, in the ancient Palace of Westminster.
There the new King, Edward VIII, and the bereaved royal family left their liege for four days of public homage before the final service and burial next Tuesday at Windsor.
By 1 p.m., more than 40,000 persons had filed past the catafalque.

The royal train will arrive at Windsor at 12.15 o'clock. There the coffin will be placed on a gun carriage to be drawn by bluejackets to St. George's Chapel. King Edward VIII will walk immediately behind the coffin, followed by the royal princes and foreign monarchs.

ROOSEVELT'S VETO REJECTED BY HOUSE

U.S. President's Opposition to Veterans' Bonus Overridden 324 to 61; Senate Expected to Follow Suit

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 24.—A heavily Democratic House voted 324 to 61 to override President Roosevelt's veto of the $2,491,000,000 war veterans' bonus bill.
Only a two-thirds majority was needed.
From the cheering Representatives, who refused to delay the ballot even a day, the bill goes to the Senate, where a vote is not possible until Monday. The Senate was not in session to-day.
There, too, leaders forecast the bill will be made law over President Roosevelt's opposition. Senator B. C. Clark, Missouri Democrat, an

Opposition Voiced To Land Sales Plan

City Council Differs Widely on Scheme Advanced to Place Reversions Back on Tax Roll; Action Would Destroy Values, Opponents Claim

Plans to press the sale of reverted property in the city, originated by the lands committee, ran into strenuous opposition at yesterday evening's City Council meeting and were finally shelved for consideration by the estimates committee.
The debate followed controversy over a motion by the lands committee to have all negotiations regarding the disposal of reverted property referred to the lands committee. The latter move was aimed particularly at bringing to light presumed action by different members of the council regarding the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Company property now held by the city.
Chief argument over the intensive lands sales programme centred around the claims by some aldermen that sale of reverted property at a low rate was justified to replace land back on a tax paying basis. Opponents of the scheme claimed it would depreciate values of adjoining property.
The lands committee, in a report, recommended the relisting of city owned property with up-to-date prices and the appropriation of $1,200 to pursue a vigorous policy of advertising to dispose of the city's holdings.

Ex-Victorian Is Called Benefactor Of All Mankind

Dr. Leroy L. Hartman, of New York, Born Here, Hailed For Discovery in Dental Science Which Ends Pain in Drilling of Teeth

By SAM ROBERTSON.
Canadian Press Staff Writer
New York, Jan. 24.—The mantle "Benefactor of All Mankind" is worn with easy grace to-day by Dr. Leroy L. Hartman, Canadian professor of dentistry famed for discovery of a desensitizer that spells doom to the 10,000 little devils who inhabit every dental drill.

Dr. Hartman, a native of Victoria, B.C., experimented for twenty years before bringing forth his simple and inexpensive pain-killer. An application deadens a decayed tooth to the point where the heaviest-handed dentist may do his worst with his still capable drill and the patient can still come up with a grin.

Republican Leader Malan had previously seconded a resolution that the condolences of Parliament be forwarded to Queen Mother Mary.

WILL ERECT NEW THEATRE

Atlas Movie House to Be Built on Yates Street; Work Starts in Two Weeks

Work on the erection of a new movie theatre on Yates Street, two doors up from the Dominion Theatre, on the lot formerly occupied by the used car department of the Reg Motor Company, will begin in two weeks, John Garrard, who is acting as agent for Dr. G. Preiswerk, said this morning.

The house will be known as the Atlas Theatre and will seat 700, and will handle second-run pictures.
The lot has already been purchased, the architect's plans are prepared and the contracts have been let.
Eric C. Clarkson, architect, has designed a building in the most modern style, with special attention to the comfort of patrons. Mr. Clarkson has had experience in connection with the motion picture business in Hollywood.

The cost of the building is estimated at $50,000.
Mr. Garrard will act as manager when the new theatre goes into operation.
The theatre will be operated on an independent basis.

TO TURN OLD BRIDGE OVER

Agreement on Fraser River Structure Finally Reached

When the provincial government's new $3,500,000 bridge across the Fraser River at New Westminster is completed the province will remove the upper traffic deck of the old bridge and then transfer title of that structure to the Dominion Government for use by railway traffic. It was explained here to-day following yesterday's announcement that federal approval had been given the bridge plans.

This is the alternative accepted by the provincial government to provide for railway traffic when the new bridge is finished. Otherwise the Dominion would have required the province to put a lift span in the old bridge of not less than 250 feet horizontal clearance and 145 feet vertical clearance above highest level in place of the old swing span.
The plans for the new bridge, as approved by Ottawa, call for a main span of 450 feet with vertical clearance above highest waters of 145 feet, thus enabling ocean vessels to pass to and fro unobstructed.
The bridge will have four lanes for traffic, only four and vehicle traffic accommodation being provided.

Ontario and Quebec were busy digging themselves out of great snowdrifts that blocked highways and hampered rail traffic. On the prairies a warmer wave was travelling down from the Mackenzie River valley, bringing relief from winter's most severe cold snap.

HART SILENT ON FINANCE PLANS

Minister Will Reach Victoria To-morrow From Federal Capital

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Jan. 24.—Wrapped in silence as profound as the cheerfulness of his smile, Hon. John Hart, B.C. Minister of Finance, halted in Vancouver to-day on his way home to Victoria from Ottawa. He is accompanied by his wife.
The guardian of the treasury had nothing to add to the generalities proffered by Premier Pattullo on his return earlier in the week.
"The Premier said all there was to say," remarked Mr. Hart.
He will leave for Victoria to-night.

It is expected that after Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, reaches Victoria this week-end, the new financial scheme laid down at the Ottawa conference will be fully discussed with the provincial cabinet.
Beyond the general announcement made after the conference finished, it has not been specifically stated whether British Columbia would accept the loan council plan or not, because it involves certain controls over provincial financing. Premier Pattullo has been equally reticent on this point.

Constitutional Views Heard

Supreme Court of Canada Listens to Arguments on Bennett Acts

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 24.—While a king lay dead in England and a new monarch sat on the throne of the British empire, the Supreme Court of Canada today considered royal prerogatives and their extent in Canada.

Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, Dominion counsel in the constitutional appeal, introduced the subject today in arguing three Dominion laws based on Henry's labor conventions were valid. He traced the royal prerogative from days when the king was absolute until today when his discretionary powers have almost disappeared.

The measures under being listed before the court are three of the eight Bennett "New Deal" Acts—those for a forty-eight-hour industrial week, minimum wages and one day's rest in seven.

In Canada, said Mr. Rowell, the king's prerogative, for instance, the pardoning of criminals, is exercised by cabinet. In effect, since the Statute of Westminster, all prerogatives of the king were exercised by the cabinet which was responsible to Parliament and the people. Prerogative powers no longer were the property of the king but the privilege of the government of the day.

TREATY RATIFICATION
Mr. Rowell contended the Dominion cabinet could ratify a treaty without consulting Parliament merely by exercising the royal prerogative. Earlier in Canadian history, Canada was bound by English treaties, but for many years had conducted its own foreign negotiations. But to conform to the royal prerogative, treaties were signed in the name of the king.

Mr. Rowell read the 1926 Imperial Conference resolutions which referred to Dominions as "autonomous communities . . . equal in status . . . though united by a common allegiance to the crown."

Chief Justice Duff said this showed clearly they could not be called independent nations.

Mr. Rowell agreed, but insisted each Dominion was supreme in negotiating treaties and in all aspects of foreign relations.

NO ADVISE
Mr. Rowell told Mr. Justice Crocket in his opinion the United Kingdom government could not advise Canada on the amendment of the British North America Act. Its constitutional field ended with its own domain.

The final recognition of Canada's control over foreign affairs was establishment of legations in Washington and Tokyo, Mr. Rowell asserted.

Alberta Party Only Farm Group Now Seeking Power in Canada

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Jan. 24.—The decision of the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta to remain in the political field leaves the foothills farmers the only farm group left in Canada seeking political power.

Once the power behind the Alberta provincial government, with strong representation in the House of Commons as well, the U.F.A. lost all its legislative representation in the landslide of Social Credit candidates in the provincial election last October.

Farmer organizations of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Ontario, once powerful factors in the political field, have since stepped out of the ring to concentrate on educational work.

New Silver Dollars Out Soon In Canada

Coins Will Be Last Bearing Likeness of Late King George V

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 24.—A new silver dollar, the last to bear the portrait of King George V, will be in circulation soon. Inquiry at the State Department elicited the information that the necessary proclamation will appear in the near future. The machinery of the Royal Canadian Mint will then proceed to turn out the new coin.

The new coin will be issued to supply the general demand for silver dollars. As arrangements were made for its issuance some little time ago, and as King George V was alive in 1926, the year of its issue, the new dollar will bear his portrait and not that of the new king. Coins issued after the close of this year, however, must bear the portrait of King Edward VIII.

When coins bearing the portrait of the present king are struck the head will be facing right and not left as is the head of the late king. That is the custom.

Mediterranean Pact New Test For Europe

In the form of a British memorandum published Wednesday.
Jugoslavia's adherence received the approval of the other two members of the Little Entente—Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

To-day's Italian memorandum charged that Britain, in beginning the interchange of assurances, acted on her own initiative as head of the League of Nations.

SAY EUROPE NOT MENACED
It reaffirmed "explicitly" Italy does not intend her colonial action in Ethiopia to "constitute a menace to European peace."

Hence, Italy protested, the Mediterranean security actions were unnecessary and dangerous because they disclosed military conversations had taken place between League members against another League member in preparation for an "arbitrary and non-existent" hypothesis.

The memorandum characterized as unbecoming the British implication of "complete solidarity for each League member" should an attack, in violation of the League covenant, be provoked by the application of sanctions.

This, said the memorandum, would permit the League as a whole to countenance understandings which are reached outside its framework.

CRADIAN PRESS FROM HAVAS
Geneva, Jan. 24.—Spain to-day aligned itself with the Mediterranean powers in pledging mutual assistance under the League of Nations covenant against any unprovoked Italian aggression.

This means that Spain with Great Britain, France, Greece, Turkey and Jugoslavia now is pledged to give mutual assistance should a conflict arise in the Mediterranean.

SOUTH AFRICAN LOYALTY VOTE

ACTION SCORED
Government members strongly denounced Dr. D. F. Malan and his followers for marrying the unanimity with which the British Empire had greeted the new King-Emperor.

The Nationalists and the South African party merged to form the United South African National Party headed by General Hertzog and General Jan C. Smuts.

The Afrikaner element in the Nationalist group rejected fusion, holding out for republicanism and the preservation of Afrikaner culture.

Elaborate preparations were made for to-day's ceremony in Parliament. The public galleries were draped in black and purple inscribed with the names of the King and the Governor-General, the Earl of Clarendon, opened the session by reading from the Throne the announcement of the death of George V and his son's accession.

A hushed House and crowded gallery heard his words of tribute.
"The bonds uniting the people of our land to his late Majesty do not cease to strengthen with the passage of the years."

"We honored him as the chief of state, but we knew also how great was his personality which commanded the esteem and affection of everyone. Their grief today is genuine and profound."

Glasgow, Jan. 24.—Thirteen Leftist members of the Glasgow city corporation voted against a resolution of sympathy and loyalty to King Edward VIII.

The Maritime Provinces were not missed by the frigid blast, according to dispatches. Moncton had 5 degrees below zero and Charlottetown reported 2 below.

Soviet-Uruguay Tilt Is to End

Associated Press
Geneva, Jan. 24.—The League of Nations Council late to-day adopted a resolution, supported by both Soviet Russia and Uruguay, to settle the dispute between the two countries arising from Uruguay's charges that the Soviet legation at Montevideo had directed subversive activities throughout South America.

The resolution, adopted unanimously, invited the two nations to refrain from any act "which might be harmful to the interests of peace and to the resumption of their diplomatic relations in the future."

It was introduced by Nicolas Titulescu of Rumania.

Uruguay recently broke off diplomatic relations with Moscow and passports, contending the Montevideo legation had been the headquarters for Communist agitation in South American countries, including Brazil, where a radical rebellion was put down last November.

Ex-Victorian Is Called Benefactor of All Mankind

PRaised BY NEWSPAPERS
That he does not hope in vain is attested by the New York press, which bestowed the mantle of world benefactor on him. The newspapers are heavy with pictures recording the phenomenon of a patient in a dentist's chair actually smiling.

The morning after Dr. Hartman had made his formula public and announced he was giving it to the world "free of charge," an enterprising city editor dug up a reporter with a lot of bad teeth and an equal amount of courage and sent him off to experiment with the Canadian's desensitizer.

In due course the formula—two parts sulphuric ether, one part ninety-five proof ethyl alcohol and one and one-quarter parts thymol—was dabbed on the press-martyr's crumpling molars. Then the dentist went to work with explorer and drill.

NO PAIN, SAYS PATIENT
After cringing for a few awful moments, the now brave reporter chronicled to a waiting world full of dentist-shy humans:
"Not a semblance of pain."

The Hartman pain-killer, he said, had converted the dread whirr of the drill into a merry hum that sounded not unlike "The Merry Widow Waltz."

HOW IT IS APPLIED
Dr. Hartman issued the following directions for use of the solution:
"This is a topical application, made on a moistened pellet of cotton, not saturated, directly to the dentine or caries. Allow pellet to remain in contact one minute for children, one and a half minutes for adults. Remove pellet and apply blast of warm air to area of application. Use rubber dam. If cotton rolls are used, varnish gums surrounding tooth and change cotton rolls immediately after application. One-half ounce sufficient for 800 applications."

WORKED WITH FATHER
This outstanding Canadian chaser of molar aches and pains fell into his profession naturally. His father, Dr. P. M. Hartman, practised dentistry in Victoria for forty-five years.

Dr. Hartman, the younger, graduated from Victoria College and the Northwestern University, then practised in partnership with his father for two years before striking out on his own.

He came to the Columbia professorship in 1924.

CARTOONS TO APPEAR
Canadian Press
New York, Jan. 24.—In addition to being a boon to suffering mankind through the discovery of his new dental pain-killer, Dr. Leroy Hartman, formerly of Victoria, B.C., is a big help to-day to New York's cartoon colony.

The Herald-Tribune suggests in a cartoon that President Roosevelt have his New Deal Technicians turn out a taxpayer desensitizer as a handy aid for his political forces soon going to the polls.

A hint suggested by Dr. Hartman's Colombian's formula might be useful for opponents doomed to face the state of Joe Louis. He shows a boxer in a bathtub brim-full of desensitizer.

A third suggests Dr. Hartman produce a pain-killer for little Johnnie to soothe the seat of his britches before taking home a weak report card from school.

Roosevelt's Veto Rejected By House

author of the measure, predicted not more than twenty votes would be cast to sustain the veto against the thirty-three needed.

It was the second time in a year the House had tossed aside a presidential bonus veto. The vote to sustain the veto to-day was only two greater than that cast against the bill's original passage.

Members barely waited to hear the reading of the brief, hand-written veto message before demands of "Vote, vote" were shouted on the floor.

Democratic leaders sought to delay the ballot until Monday, but were voted down 180 to 131.

The Senate will not meet until Monday, so final action was delayed over the week-end. Leaders there predicted the Senators would join the Representatives and make the $2,491,000 bill law over the President's opposition.

BREAKS PRECEDENT
Mr. Roosevelt's handwritten message, returning the bonus bill "without my approval" broke precedent of a quarter of a century.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his message, referred Senators and Representatives "respectfully . . . to every word of what I said" in last year's veto of a currency-expansion bonus payment bill.

"My convictions are as impelling to-day as they were then," the President said. "Therefore I can not change them."

TWO DIFFERENTS
"The bill I now return differs from last year's bill in only two important respects: First, it eliminates the issuance of unsecured paper currency to make the payments required and substitutes interest-bearing bonds, which, however, may be converted into cash for face value at any time; second, it adds $265,000,000 to the total payments by forgiving interest after October 1, 1931, on amounts borrowed."

"In all other respects, the circumstances, arguments and facts remain essentially the same as those fully covered and explained by me only eight months ago."

SPORTS POSTPONED
Los Angeles, Jan. 24.—(Associated Press)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce found too much sunshine interfering with its plans to-day. While other parts of the United States were getting more than their share of sub-zero weather, the chamber's winter sports carnival had to be postponed because there was no snow.

Burial will be in the tomb section immediately beneath the chapel.

TWO MINUTES OF SILENCE
Business establishments were not asked to close for the day of the funeral Tuesday, but two minutes of silence will be observed throughout the empire during the final service at Windsor, west of London.

It was announced King Edward had expressed the wish blinds should not be drawn in the houses along the route of the funeral cortege on Tuesday.

Both houses of Parliament adjourned until February 4.

London, Jan. 24.—(Canadian Press from Havas)—Members of the royal houses of Europe and diplomats and statesmen of high standing will attend the funeral of the late King George V next Tuesday.

Several kings and princesses will be among the mourners. Ambassadors at London will represent a number of countries far removed from Great Britain.

A partial list of those who will attend from European countries follows:

Austria—Vice-Chancellor Prince Ernst von Starheimberg.
Belgium—King Leopold III.
Czechoslovakia—Jan Masaryk, minister to Britain.

Denmark—King Christian X.
Finland—Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim.
France—President Albert Lebrun.
Germany—Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath.

Greece—Prince George and Princess Paul.
Hungary—Foreign Minister Kelen.
Luxembourg—Prince Consort Felix.
Norway—King Haakon VII and Queen Maud, sister of the late King George.

Roumania—King Carol II.
Turkey—Foreign Minister Tewfik Rustu Aras.
Jugoslavia—Prince Regent Paul.
Russia—Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff.

FROM JAPAN
Tokio, Jan. 24.—(Canadian Press from Havas)—Matsukata Sato, Japanese ambassador at Paris, will represent Emperor Hirohito of Japan at the funeral of the late King George V.

SOVIET SETS PRECEDENT
Moscow, Jan. 24.—(Canadian Press from Havas)—Maxim Litvinoff will attend the funeral of the late King George V—the first time the Soviet Union has been represented at the funeral service of a foreign sovereign.

shepherded through wooden barriers, in lines from above, along both sides of the coffin.

Rich and poor, young and old, they flowed by throughout the day at an estimated rate of 15,000 persons an hour.

The catafalque, or temporary stage on which the coffin rested was of black and gold with a purple base. On each of the four corners stood a single, tall candle.

The royal standard was draped over the coffin, at one end rested the jeweled imperial crown and over the head were the crosses of flowers from King Edward and Mary, the Queen Mother.

Amid this scene the body will remain until Tuesday, when it will be taken again through streets of London as it was in yesterday's solemn procession from the King's Cross railway station.

FROM NORWAY
King Haakon of Norway and Queen Maud, sister of the late King George, arrived after an overnight trip from Oslo and went at once to Buckingham Palace.

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Jan. 23.—A large part of the crowd at Westminster Hall this morning, especially youths and girl office workers, had stood in the cold wind and rain all night in order to view the late King's lying-in-state and get to their work on time.

Canadians and other overseas citizens of the British Commonwealth of Nations were among the first to enter the hall in which the body of the King lay on a black catafalque.

The feeling of these overseas subjects of the dead sovereign was expressed by a gray-haired Canadian, who joined the army at the outbreak of the Great War.

"One of the reasons why I felt I should like to be one of the first to pay homage to the King," he said, "is that I knew something at first hand of how he was loved overseas."

ETHIOPIAN REPORT
Addis Ababa, Jan. 24.—Ethiopian authorities claimed to-day that 1,700 Italians had been killed in the northern front battle southwest of Makale.

They said 800 others, many of Austrian extraction, had surrendered.

The Ethiopian claims ran directly counter to an Italian official communique which said the battle, in the southern Tumbien Mountain region near Makale, had resulted in "complete Italian victory."

On the other hand, the contention that Italian soldiers of Austrian extraction had surrendered recalled recent reports of wholesale desertions from the Fascist army in Italy's south Tyrol, where the population is largely Austrian.

CORRESPONDENTS RETIRE

With the Italian Southern Army at Filtu, Ethiopia, Jan. 17, (By Courier to Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, Jan. 24)—Italy's "hell on wheels" campaign, chasing Ras Desta Demtu's fleeing Ethiopians, has seized all water holes in this waterless, floodless region, expecting the enemy to "come to us."

High Italian commanders told this correspondent to-day the army of Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie and Ethiopian commander-in-chief on the southern front, was completely disabused and Ras Desta and his Belgian aide were fleeing on mule-back.

Italy's motorized columns of armored cars and tanks, carrying machine guns and mountain cannon, smashed Ras Desta's defences from Dolo 110 miles into the interior in eighty hours.

Ras Desta abandoned piles of rice and supplies after two nights of dusk-to-dawn fighting. Numbers of Ethiopian dead were scattered over the valley.

Sir John Simon, Home Secretary, revealed to-day this final incident in the fateful meeting of the Privy Council before the King died.

As His Majesty was making gallant but pathetic efforts to sign his name to the decree which would place the affairs of the country in the hands of a Council of State, he turned to those present and said, quietly and simply: "I am so sorry to keep you waiting like this."

Sir John added: "These were the last words we heard him utter, though he gave us each the smiling nod with which he was accustomed to end an audience."

Basic Changes In Relief Indicated

Widespread Maintenance and Construction Programme Mooted in Place of Present System

In anticipation of basic changes in the provincial government's administration of relief, along lines calculated to abolish the present system and institute a widespread works programme, Alderman F. R. Brown yesterday evening urged the City Council to secure the most favorable terms possible for the city.

Alderman Brown said he understood the provincial government had under consideration a new scheme which would form a basis of operation for a considerable time, probably fifteen years. He thought the city should press for some alteration in the tax set-up and seek relief from the burden of social services.

Indication of a change was seen in a letter from E. W. Griffith, provincial administrator of relief, calling for statistics on various features of works in the city.

In the communication Mr. Griffith said Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, desired to obtain accurate information showing normal municipal expenditures during the years 1925-27 as compared with expenditures during the latter years of the depression in order that he might be in a position to place before the government before the commencement of the new fiscal year recommendations and plans to assist municipalities in the carrying out of maintenance or construction programmes on a work basis in place of the present relief system.

"We are anxious to have the figures as soon as possible," the letter said. It continued: "Please give the annual expenditure for the years designated of all capital costs covering civic public works, roads, bridges, sidewalks, waterworks, etc., subdividing the same into labor costs and material costs."

"Please give the annual expenditure covering maintenance costs for civic public works, roads, bridges, sidewalks, waterworks, etc., with the following subdivision: "Labor costs, which will cover the annual payroll for all regular maintenance employees, but excluding relief work only and excluding all costs set out in the preceding paragraph."

"Total cost of material for each year."

"Please give the number of your employees engaged on maintenance work only at the 'peak of employment' during each given year, but do not include relief workers in this figure."

"Please state the total annual expenditure of the city paid out on account of indigent families or persons (excluding any charges to unemployment relief)."

That letter, along with other matters pertaining to relief, was referred to the relief committee.

BIKE LICENSING TO BE OPTIONAL

Optional registration of bicycles in an effort to assist police in tracing losses and thefts will be instituted in the city as the result of city council action yesterday evening.

The finance committee recommended the council establish the license system at a charge of twenty-five cents for each registration, the registration to cover a three-year period.

The suggestion was advanced the matter be taken up with the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, but the council finally decided to experiment with the scheme as an optional course for owners of bicycles. No compulsion will be used to have owners make registration, but if they wish to secure the extra protection they may list their machines with the police.

The suggestion to alter the committee room in the City Hall at a cost of $350 was referred to the estimates committee, with Alderman Stanley Okeil remarking: "I think there are lots of better ways of spending money than that. The room is good enough for its purpose."

FRANK SIMONDS, WRITER, DIES

Washington, Jan. 24.—Frank H. Simonds, fifty-eight, noted journalist, author and student of foreign affairs, died yesterday.

In 1900 Mr. Simonds started a newspaper career which began with The New York Tribune and included service as a writer and editor on The New York Evening Post, New York Sun and The Review of Reviews.

Since 1918 he had been a contributor to a syndicate of fifty United States and foreign newspapers.

APPROVE TENDER

The city council yesterday evening approved acceptance of the tender of Luney Brothers Ltd. for the construction of the Oaklands auditorium at a cost of $7,760, on the recommendation of the school board, which had submitted it to the council for ratification.

Alderman P. R. Brown moved the acceptance of the tender and the signing of the contract. The city engineer was instructed to write to the provincial government for approval of the work as a loan project.

RADIO TALK DEBATE DRAW

Amicable Settlement Reached Between Aldermen on Campaign Issue

A threatened brush between Alderman R. A. C. Dewar and Alderman Ed Williams, over alleged election charges by the latter that works under the city's relief department and on the $100,000 loan projects had yielded little of permanence to the city, ended amicably at yesterday evening's council meeting. When the two aldermen had finished presenting their cases Mayor Leeming good-naturedly declared the argument a draw.

Arising out of a previous meeting, a detailed report on the $100,000 loan projects was presented, showing the work accomplished, the estimates earmarked for each and the amount of money spent to date.

TO REFUTE STATEMENTS

Alderman Dewar said he had asked for the report to refute statements attributed to Alderman Williams. Alderman Williams, he said, might have referred to the relief work and not the $100,000 loan projects. He was still wrong, Alderman Dewar said. To illustrate his claim the alderman cited Hollywood Park, Johnson Street extension, Macdonald Park and several other works as samples of permanent work done by relief.

Alderman Williams replied by quoting from his own radio speech on December 11. He had not attacked the $100,000 loan projects, he said. "My idea was and is now that we should raise the system of relief to the level of the $100,000 loan projects," he said.

Alderman Archie Willis asked how much of the loan had been appropriated to date. The mayor replied about $42,000.

Opposition Voiced To Land Sales Plan

POLICY IN QUESTION

It was up to the council to decide whether it wished to rush reverted property back on to the tax roll or to take slower action in order to protect the assessment, Mayor Leeming said.

Alderman Andrew McGavin said he wished to see the land back on the tax roll.

Alderman Walter Luney said sale of city-owned land prices below the assessment tended to destroy the value of adjacent property. In good districts sales should be in keeping with the assessment, he said.

Alderman J. D. Hunter said he wished to see all reversions taken off the sales list. He saw no reason against securing legislation to allow the city to rent out the land on long term leases, up to ninety-nine years at a charge covering taxes and 3 per cent of the assessment. He thought sales at low prices by the city depreciated values, but that long term leases would encourage building and increase city revenue. He had, he said, a motion to that effect to introduce later in the meeting.

LAND IMPROVED
"I don't think one parcel was sold by the land committee last year that was not improved almost immediately," Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, chairman of the lands committee, said. As a result of 1935 sale he thought the city was getting more revenue. Such sales, however, might depreciate real estate values, he admitted.

Mayor Leeming cited figures from the city's reverted property auction last year.

"Question very much if the city land had been kept off the sales list altogether last year there would have been any fewer reversions," Alderman Dewar said.

People were moving out of Victoria to secure lower taxes, he added. He questioned the wisdom of such action, since transportation costs and other services, in his opinion, increased their living expenses, to an extent equal to the higher city taxes.

"When you realize land is below the pre-boom 1909 level in assessed value you wonder where land values are going," the mayor remarked.

Alderman Archie Willis questioned the effect of city land sales on reversions as claimed by the mayor. Hundreds of reversions were going to the city because people saw the hopelessness of holding property, the mayor said, adding "the reason for hopelessness is partly due to the lowness of prices charged by the city for sales."

PUT PROPERTY ON TAX ROLL
Alderman Willis said the proposed land sales scheme was advanced to put people on the city tax roll instead of letting them go to outside municipalities. He said in several instances purchasers had stated if they could not get their lots at certain figures they would build in Oak Bay or Saanich. The committee was determined to see that they stayed in the city.

Alderman James Adam drew the council's attention to the fact virtually every lot sold by the city last year was improved. The city could not sell its lots by raising their prices. "I'd give them away," he added.

"As soon as you do that you are going to lose $200,000 a year in taxes on reverted vacant lots," the mayor said.

Alderman Adam replied he had bought a lot for $2,000 and sold it recently for $275. "If the lot next to mine were improved my lot's value would increase," he said.

Addressing the mayor, Alderman Andrew McGavin said the chief magistrate's policy was to keep things stagnant.

Mayor Leeming compared the possible revenue from taxes on improved property on an intensive land sales scheme with the possible loss of revenue from taxes paid on vacant lots, which he thought would revert if the city followed a policy of cheap sales.

Alderman Dewar said present conditions regarding lots held privately were largely due to the boom times of former years when prices were above assessments.

DESTROY VALUES

Alderman Walter Luney said Alderman Adam's action in selling a $2,000 lot for $275 had reduced the value of adjacent property. "If you sell a $700 lot for $200 and it is good property, you are going to have to sell worse property for less," he said.

Alderman Ed Williams asked at what figure the city would assess a lot originally assessed at $400 and sold for $200.

The mayor replied it would be assessed at $400.

"There's no argument," Alderman Adam said, claiming that proved the point in favor of low sales.

Alderman Willis and Alderman Dewar again spoke in favor of the land sales policy before an amendment, suggesting the plan be sent to the estimates committee, was put to the vote.

The amendment carried with the mayor and Aldermen P. R. Brown, T. W. C. Hawkins, Ed. Williams, Stan Okeil and Walter Luney in the affirmative. Aldermen Hunter, Dewar, Willis, Adam and McGavin were against the action.

C.P.S. NEGOTIATIONS
On the question of referring all negotiations for sale of property owned by the city to the lands committee, Alderman Dewar said his group was particularly concerned over reported action on the C.P.S. plan.

Alderman Luney said he would not be prepared to turn over the question of disposing of the C.P.S. to the lands committee until he had a definite bid on the property.

Alderman P. R. Brown thought the lands committee should be kept informed on negotiations.

Mayor Leeming explained in the case of the C.P.S. the man with whom he had talked over a possible purchase had made no definite bid, but had been interested in acquiring the mill.

thing over with the man? he asked. He used an analogy.

"I have a horse. I want to sell it for $10 —"

"Sold," shouted Alderman Adam. Pursuing his figure of speech the mayor asked if he could not negotiate for the sale of the horse.

"Certainly, if it is your horse," Alderman McGavin interjected. In the case of the C.P.S. he thought the lands committee should have been consulted.

EXPLAINED CONVERSATIONS
Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins told the council he had driven one individual interested in the purchase around the city. That person had been interested in securing the mill to use in connection with another project, he said. To date he had made no definite offer, the alderman added.

Alderman Brown suggested the man use more speed, since he understood two other interests were considering the purchase.

The motion finally passed, referring all negotiations to the lands committee.

Alderman Hunter's motion, recommending the city secure permissive legislation from the government to lease land up to ninety-nine years, was also referred to the lands committee for study.

ORDER LABOR GROUP TO DISBAND

Associated Press
MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24.—The American Federation of Labor's executive council yesterday commanded the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization to "immediately disband" and "cease to function."

The council moved after finding "there is growing conviction" that the Lewis committee's activities "constitute a challenge to the supremacy of the American Federation of Labor."

Recalling the expression against industrial unions of delegates to the A.F. of L. 1935 convention, the executive council said it must "insist" the convention policies "should be respected, observed and carried out."

With seven international unions supporting the Lewis committee a struggle of far-reaching consequences rests on the committee's decision whether to accede to the executive council's demand.

Mayor Leeming cited figures from the city's reverted property auction last year.

"I question very much if the city land had been kept off the sales list altogether last year there would have been any fewer reversions," Alderman Dewar said.

People were moving out of Victoria to secure lower taxes, he added. He questioned the wisdom of such action, since transportation costs and other services, in his opinion, increased their living expenses, to an extent equal to the higher city taxes.

"When you realize land is below the pre-war level in assessed value you wonder where land values are going," the mayor remarked.

Alderman Archie Willis questioned the effect of city land sales on reversions as claimed by the mayor. Hundreds of reversions were going to the city because people saw the hopelessness of holding property, the mayor said, adding "the reason for hopelessness is partly due to the lowness of prices charged by the city for sales."

PUT PROPERTY ON TAX ROLL

Alderman Willis said the proposed land sales scheme was advanced to put people on the city tax roll instead of letting them go to outside municipalities. He said in several instances purchasers had stated if they could not get their lots at certain figures they would build in Oak Bay or Saanich. The committee was determined to see that they stayed in the city.

Alderman James Adam drew the council's attention to the fact virtually every lot sold by the city last year was improved. The city could not sell its lots by raising their prices. "I'd give them away," he added.

"As soon as you do that you are going to lose $200,000 a year in taxes on reverted vacant lots," the mayor said.

Alderman Adam replied he had bought a lot for $2,000 and sold it recently for $275. "If the lot next to mine were improved my lot's value would increase," he said.

Addressing the mayor, Alderman Andrew McGavin said the chief magistrate's policy was to keep things stagnant.

Mayor Leeming compared the possible revenue from taxes on improved property on an intensive land sales scheme with the possible loss of revenue from taxes paid on vacant lots, which he thought would revert if the city followed a policy of cheap sales.

Alderman Dewar said present conditions regarding lots held privately were largely due to the boom times of former years when prices were above assessments.

DESTROYS VALUES

Alderman Walter Luney said Alderman Adam's action in selling a $2,000 lot for $275 had reduced the value of adjacent property. "If you sell a $700 lot for $200 and it is good property, you are going to have to sell worse property for less," he said.

Alderman Ed Williams asked at what figure the city would assess a lot originally assessed at $400 and sold for $200.

The mayor replied it would be assessed at $400.

"There's no argument," Alderman Adam said, claiming that proved the point in favor of low sales.

Alderman Willis and Alderman Dewar again spoke in favor of the land sales policy before an amendment, suggesting the plan be sent to the estimates committee, was put to the vote.

The amendment carried with the mayor and Aldermen P. R. Brown, T. W. C. Hawkins, Ed. Williams, Stan Okell and Walter Luney in the affirmative. Aldermen Hunter, Dewar, Willis, Adam and McGavin were against the action.

C.P.S. NEGOTIATIONS

On the question of referring all negotiations for sale of property owned by the city to the lands committee, Alderman Dewar said his group was particularly concerned over reported action on the C.P.S. plant.

Alderman Luney said he would not be prepared to turn over the question of disposing of the C.P.S. to the lands committee until he had a definite bid on the property.

Alderman P. R. Brown thought the lands committee should be kept informed on negotiations.

Mayor Leeming explained in the case of the C.P.S. the man with whom he had talked over a possible purchase had made no definite bid, but had been interested in acquiring the mill.

Was he not entitled to talk the

"I have a horse. I want to sell it for $10 —"

"Sold," shouted Alderman Adam.

Pursuing his figure of speech the mayor asked if he could not negotiate for the sale of the horse.

"Certainly, if it is your horse," Alderman McGavin interjected.

In the case of the C.P.S. he thought the lands committee should have been consulted.

EXPLAINED CONVERSATIONS

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins told the council he had driven one individual interested in the purchase around the city. That person had been interested in securing the mill to use in connection with another project, he said. To date he had made no definite offer, the alderman added.

Alderman Brown suggested the man use more speed, since he understood two other interests were considering the purchase.

The motion finally passed, referring all negotiations to the lands committee.

Alderman Hunter's motion, recommending the city secure permissive legislation from the government to lease land up to ninety-nine years, was also referred to the lands committee for study.

Manitoba Schools To Close Jan. 28

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Jan. 24.—Schools will be closed and all government buildings and public offices throughout Manitoba will observe Tuesday, January 28, the day set apart for the funeral of the late King George, as a public holiday.

"We fully expect all stores and business houses to co-operate with us in a full observance of this day proclaimed by the Governor as a general holiday," Hon. W. J. Tupper, Lieutenant-Governor, declared.

ORDER LABOR GROUP TO DISBAND

Associated Press

Miami, Fla., Jan. 24.—The American Federation of Labor's executive council yesterday commanded the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization to "immediately dissolve" and "cease to function."

The council moved after finding "there is growing conviction" that the Lewis committee's activities "constitute a challenge to the supremacy of the American Federation of Labor."

Recalling the expression against industrial unions of delegates to the A.F. of L. 1935 convention, the executive council said it must "insist" the convention policies "should be respected, observed and carried out."

With seven international unions supporting the Lewis committee a struggle of far-reaching consequences rests on the committee's decision whether to accede to the executive council's demand.

VICTORIAN WINS HIGH HONOR

VICTORIA HAS DESERVED PROMINENCE abroad because of her natural beauty, charming surroundings, attractive homes and gardens and luxuriant flowers. She now enters the Valhalla of an even wider distinction at the coat-tails of one of her gifted sons who has just established himself as a real practical benefactor of mankind wherever there is such a thing as a working and workable tooth. Dr. Leroy Hartman, who was born, educated and grew to manhood in this city, and is now Professor of Dentistry at Columbia University, New York, has recently announced to the world his discovery of a formula which, according to a special correspondent of the Canadian Press, spells "doom to the 10,000 little devils who inhabit every dental drill."

Dr. Hartman has been experimenting for twenty years with a view to establishing a more comfortable relation between the occupant of a dentist's chair and the buzzing little drill which can send more frigid waves down the spine and provoke more spasms of apprehension and sudden twinges of pain than any other agency operated for a beneficent purpose. A short time ago, after satisfactory tests, he was able to disclose a formula which when applied to a tooth deadens it to a degree which enables the dentist to drill away without the slightest painful reaction for the owner of the tooth.

The new formula is simple and inexpensive and its discoverer has given it to the world without any reservation. This is a rather unusual proceeding in our materialistic state in view of the obvious opportunities his discovery gives him for amassing great wealth. No doubt there are many practical economists who have mournfully decided that Dr. Hartman is not a sagacious businessman.

The New York newspapers have shown exceptional interest in Dr. Hartman's discovery, because it involves the human factor wherever King Toothache's far-flung demonic legions carry on their nefarious activities. But at first they believed that the news which came from the doctor's laboratory was too good to be true. One of them, therefore, sent a member of its staff whose teeth needed fixing to Dr. Hartman's office for a trial. The scribe, who not unnaturally was somewhat skeptical when he sat on the chair and regarded himself as a martyr to science, reported after the work was done that he had not felt the slightest remembrance of pain. In fact, the buzz of the drill sounded musically in his ears, and he seemed to detect in its varying cadences the catchy theme tune of the "Merry Widow" opera.

Dr. Hartman's discovery should do more than to remove the apprehension of people who after long hesitation submit themselves to dental operations. It should remove much of the hesitation itself, and encourage people to consult their dentists more promptly, thereby saving themselves considerable expense and improving their health through the adequate protection or correction of their teeth. Fear of the dentist's chair, of the succession of poignant twinges which dart out from a ragged nerve when the drill drives into it, often causes people to postpone the day of dental reckoning until it is too late. In the care of the teeth a stitch in time saves nine. Dr. Hartman's discovery should make more universal the prompt, practical application of the adage, especially when the stitch becomes almost melodious.

The gifted Victorian's formula also should facilitate the work of the dentist, which in most instances is complicated by the nervousness of patients whose contortions call for a much greater concentration and exhaustion of nervous energy by the operator than otherwise would be necessary. With occupants of dental chairs freed from the fear of pain, able to keep themselves properly relaxed; dentists now should be able to do their work more quickly, more effectively, and a good time can be had by all. For all this, thanks to Dr. Hartman whose splendid humanitarianism in giving his discovery to the world openly without regard to personal gain raises him to a high place on the eminence reserved for public benefactors.

IN THE OLD DAYS

A MAINLAND CONTEMPORARY quotes The London Times of January 18, 1836, the report of a police court case in which a hackney-coachman was charged with taking sixpence more than his legal fare. Sir Robert Gill, the informant, told the court that he employed the defendant to drive him from Wimpole Street to York Chambers in St. James's Street.

It appears that the hackney tariff one hundred years ago for that distance was a shilling, but passenger Sir Robert Gill obviously was a very methodical person, for he produced for the court a little book that told him that he could have gone a distance of three streets farther for a shilling, adding that he always carried a book of that sort with him to prevent imposition.

The hackney-coachman, however, was equal to the occasion. In his defence he pleaded that he was obliged to turn out of the regular route to St. James's Street "in consequence of the road being impassable from the sewers undergoing repair." Not only that, he was quite prepared to have the ground measured to demonstrate to the court that he had driven his "fare" more than a mile. Sir Robert, on the other hand, said he had gone the same distance before, and had never paid more than a shilling. Still, the "cabby" wanted the route measured. In the end the two parties to the case settled the matter without further proceedings.

This little incident of a hundred years ago takes us back to the days of the handsome cab of the pre-taxi period, when it used to be a good idea for a

"fare" to reckon a penny—two cents—a minute as the correct bill for the journey, thus giving the driver what was considered the appropriate "tip."

Woe betide the "fare" who was not sufficiently careful to bear in mind this estimate. If he paid only the legal tariff as he alighted from the cab, he was usually greeted with "Good-night, Mr. Vanderbilt," or "Good-night, Your Royal Highness." Either of these parting salutations used to be sufficient to produce the expected "tip."

PROMPT AND EFFECTIVE

THE EFFECTIVE REACTION OF VANCOUVER'S police force to the recent bank robbery and murder calls for special complimentary comment. The crime was committed on Wednesday, January 15, the bank cashier who was shot expiring on the following day. Within a few hours of the death of the victim of the shooting the police had rounded up three suspects, two of whom were charged with murder and one with being an accessory to the crime. Within a few days later several other arrests were made. Last Wednesday, after discovering the quarter in which two men suspected of being implicated in the robbery and murder were believed to be hiding, the police surrounded the premises and the fugitives, when cornered, killed themselves.

This swift sequel to major crime was an exceptionally good piece of police work. It suggests that, given adequate numbers and facilities, Vancouver's police force is able to give so conspicuous an account of itself as to create a salutary impression in the underworld. But there are other desirable sequels, if that impression is to be maintained and they have to do with the processes of our tribunals of justice. These should be just as prompt and thorough as the operations of the Vancouver police have been, even if it is necessary to call the courts into special session before the regular periods set for them.

LUCKY VICTORIA

WE ARE WITHIN NODDING DISTANCE of the end of the first month of 1936 and so far the calendar winter months have produced no snow and only a few white frosts. There has been rain but not in such quantity as we had it this time last year. But when we think of what the people of the east and middle west are having to put up with we feel the urge to brag about our climate a little bit. Imagine temperatures of fifty degrees below zero, while we in Victoria have been basking in a temperature, which yesterday, for example, was eighteen degrees above freezing point. Our maximum was fifty and our minimum forty.

We propose to touch wood, for we may get a minor cold snap, but at present there is a bright sun shining and Victoria citizens are walking about the streets and looking at the bulletins in the windows of The Times building without topcoats. The muffled-up individual is as scarce as a hen's tooth. The weatherman has our full and unqualified permission to do all that in his power lies to continue this comfortable meteorological condition.

OUR REVERTED LANDS

THE COMMITTEE OF THE CITY COUNCIL in charge of the administration of property which has reverted to the municipality for non-payment of taxes wants to have the abandoned lots returned to the taxation and revenue-producing roll, and has proposed an appropriation for a campaign of advertising for that purpose. It believes that if the lands were disposed of on terms satisfactory to buyers subject to the condition that buildings be erected upon them, the exodus of city residents to the adjoining municipalities which is causing grave concern in civic quarters would be appreciably discouraged. If any considerable proportion of the many thousands of lots which have reverted to the city could be restored to the tax roll, the general taxation would be reduced and the whole community would benefit.

The committee's reasoning is sound enough. In fact, it is hard to see how property reversion and the growing outward trek can be countered in any other way. The problem of city taxation can not be permanently solved by the provincial or Dominion governments, neither of which can contribute more than a temporary alleviation. Nor is there the faintest prospect of the incorporation of the adjoining municipalities with Victoria except with their own consent, and there is no promise of that until taxation in this city becomes less burdensome. There are certain advantages in living in Victoria which more than compensate for a higher taxation than that in operation in the neighboring communities, but the adverse margin now is regarded by many people as excessive. It could be greatly reduced by the return of a material proportion of reverted property to the tax roll.

What Other Papers Say

THE PATHETIC SEQUEL
The Ottawa Journal

A statement of the Ontario Motor Vehicle Department the other day revealed 41,983 persons had been injured in automobile accidents in Ontario in the last five years, and 2,495 dead. These statistics, cold and matter-of-fact, carry their own moral. But there is more. What about the irreparable grief brought to bereaved families, sometimes left without support?

"AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED"
The Ottawa Journal

Let this, then, be among your good resolutions: I will drive safely. I will not leave my good manners at home. I will drive at reasonable speed, will take no chances, will signal my movements to cars behind me, will pay close attention to lights and signs. I will not insist upon my legal right of way when to do so may cause an accident.

THE BORAH PRESIDENTIAL "BOOM"
The Boston Christian Science Monitor

To-day reaction against Rooseveltism has strengthened and emboldened the conservative wing of the G.O.P. One guess—which may be no better than some others—is that the Borah G.O.P. will obtain a few nice-sounding concessions to conservatism in the party platform and help prevent the nomination of a too utterly backward-looking candidate, and that Mr. Borah will come back to Washington with new prestige as Idaho's perennial contribution to the senatorial surveillance of world affairs.

Loose Ends

Mr. Eden is sure of it — Mr. Mussolini is sure of it — Mr. Wells is sure of it — so maybe we had better prepare for it.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

CHEERFUL PROSPECT

MR. EDEN, the exquisite, stood up before his country constituents the other night and calmly observed, in the course of a few general, after-dinner remarks, that another war would destroy civilization. Mr. Mussolini, talking to Anne O'Hare McCormick, of The New York Times, about the same time, said that another war would destroy civilization. Mr. H. G. Wells, leaving for England after a period of celluloid and night clubs in Hollywood, said another war would destroy civilization, and added that they were doomed, must have gone about in fear and trembling, must have rushed to the churches to pray, must have fortified their souls for a better life beyond the grave. They will hardly believe that this generation rushed to the movies to see Clark Gable and fortified themselves with cocktails. They will never know, ten generations from now, how brave we were, knowing that we were about to jump off the deep end, out of civilization into chaos.

This is a spectacle to which historians may devote some attention. Never has a generation of people faced certain disaster with such fortitude. Here we are on the edge of final cataclysm; here we are about to destroy our civilization at one blow; here we are on the eve of world suicide, but people go about their business as usual. Ten generations from now, when they have built a new civilization, they will imagine that the people of this time, knowing that they were doomed, must have gone about in fear and trembling, must have rushed to the churches to pray, must have fortified their souls for a better life beyond the grave. They will hardly believe that this generation rushed to the movies to see Clark Gable and fortified themselves with cocktails. They will never know, ten generations from now, how brave we were, knowing that we were about to jump off the deep end, out of civilization into chaos.

CARROTS

IT IS INTERESTING to speculate on how a civilization is destroyed; what actually happens; what processes of destruction are. We know what happened in Rome when its civilization was destroyed, but this will be different, because we are more highly organized, more mechanized, and much less independent than the Romans. Most of our population cannot feed itself. Only a few like me know how to grow cabbages, even. The rest of you will starve in forty-eight hours at most, if civilization and its much-abused system of distribution were destroyed. There will be only a few of us out here, with a potato pit and a few carrots in the ground, who will eat at all. Even now I can picture you streaming out here in mobs, with guns and knives, to take our potatoes and our carrots from us when civilization is destroyed. I can picture rich men and jeweled women from Rockland Avenue fighting to the death for one of my sprouts of broccoli. All the jewels on Rockland Avenue, all the bonds of the British Columbia government will not be sufficient to buy one of my cabbages.

No doubt we shall have to fight for our great wealth. We may have to die for our cabbages. If I read another speech by Mr. Eden or Mr. Mussolini, I shall feel it necessary to go out and buy a machine gun and some ammunition for use on the day when civilization is destroyed.

THE CAVES

IT WILL BE INTERESTING to see the people of this civilization going back to caves and wearing skins. You can derive a good deal of innocent amusement simply by imagining as you walk down the street to-day, how the people you see would look in skins. Just watch the Civil Service streaming out of the Parliament Buildings at an evening and imagine how it would look in skins. A lot of skinny people will den up in the great stone caves across the Bay after civilization has been destroyed.

I dare say, after civilization has been destroyed, our island will be cut off entirely from the mainland. Travel will cease. We shall become a separate race, free to develop our own characteristics and talents, unaltered by the culture of inferior races. Within a generation we shall develop an accent of our own, a new language much more euphonious than the one we have now, although we will preserve our golf and bridge idioms.

In a few generations explorers from some other new-born civilization beyond the sea will land on these shores and say to themselves that these primitive people in skins have words in their strange dialect which seem to bear a weird resemblance to English. Some of our Victorian words do, even now, you know.

GOVERNMENT

WE SHALL DEVISE some rough form of tribal government, no doubt; a council of elders, perhaps, with a paramount chief at the head. I can almost see Paramount Chief Leeming ordering the tribesmen to remove some of the accumulated bones and animal carcasses from Douglas Street, between the mud houses, and Chief Medicine Man George Warren attracting visitors from other tribes up the island with wild barbaric snake dances before the fire, and the naked tribesmen worshipping the sacred White Bear, and the Chief Constable attending to those who drink too much of our native loganberry juice, distilled by that cunning magician, Chief Herb Ancomb. Yes, and I can see those ghastly green and red lights at the intersections burning low and then going out altogether and rusting and falling to the ground, making us free men once more.

Altogether, the destruction of civilization may not be such a bad thing after all. The real danger is that it may not die. It may insist on going ahead, just as it is now, stop-and-go lights and all.

SO THERE!

To the Editor:—Yesterday's Times says the King will have the moral support of all bachelors in his hard struggle to get through this Leap Year in single file. It is to be hoped that, on the contrary, His Majesty will set an example for the bachelors of the empire by choosing a Queen as soon as possible. If he should do so, there are some of us girls, who neglected our opportunities in the last five or six Leap Years, who intend to show that we mean business this year. This is both an instruction and a warning. So there! JUNO.

EDMONTONIANS

NON-WORKERS MUST TALK
To the Editor:—Tuesday night I heard some young fellows on the air, and I wish to comment on one of the remarks they made. One fellow—I don't remember his name—was speaking on general conditions of the world to-day and said, "What this country needs are nontalking workers and non-talking non-workers." As you can readily see, this is a gross insult to us who are unfortunate enough to be unemployed and wish to better our conditions.

SAANICH ZONING BY-LAW

To the Editor:—I am instructed by the president of the Ward Three Ratepayers' Association, Mr. Leslie Scott, to reply to a letter published in your columns over the signature of C. F. Dawson. In the first paragraph of Mr. Dawson's letter, he intimates that a "few taxpayers of Gordon Head" are forcing an injustice on Ward One. This is very misleading, because it is the ratepayers from all over the ward who are behind this plebiscite, and not just a few of the Gordon Head residents. A zoning by-law in Ward Three would not prevent Ward One or any other ward having a zoning by-law of its own if it so desired. Also if the plebiscite is passed favorably no one can definitely say what effect it will have on property values. Because the council is not advised as yet on the terms of the by-law, and public meetings would have to be held to determine the boundaries that would be set up. So in effect this plebiscite is to determine the will of the people in Ward Three—do we wish this ward left open for any and every kind of a nuisance free to come in and settle indiscriminately, or are we going to indicate to the council

THREE-CORNERED MOON

"Three-Cornered Moon," and in all my experience of drama I never heard such objectionable language used in any stage. The play itself was too silly for any stage, and no drama in it. A family of millionaires, you would expect them to be dressed accordingly, but they looked to me more like a family on relief. Part played by Fraser Lister was the best by far. When you hear people leaving the theatre talking about the vulgarity of the piece it is about time it was stopped. A stitch in time saves nine.

Ward Three Ratepayers' Association

Mr. Dawson would have us believe that Gordon Head residents alone are responsible for this agitation to achieve some reasonable building and nuisance control. Such an assertion is at variance with the truth. The ratepayers' association of Ward Three is made up of residents of every walk of life and they come from every corner and district of the entire ward. As for the value of Mr. Dawson's intimation in his closing paragraph. I doubt if anyone but Mr. Dawson understands it. The value of the zoning by-law to the municipality as a whole is conceded by every thinking person. It will prevent the setting up of nuisances which later the council might have to subsidize to have removed. At the moment of writing the council is faced with compensating a fox farm to which some residents in another ward have raised objections. Allow me, sir, in closing, to say that the ratepayers' association of Ward Three deeply resent the intimation that this movement is motivated by selfishness on the part of a few. Rather, we think this is a forward-looking piece of legislation necessary for the future development of the ward, and for which we will be thanked in the years to come.

HORACE MCCLUNG

Secretary, Ward Three Ratepayers' Association, R.M.D. 4, Victoria, Jan. 23.

Ward Three Ratepayers' Association

Mr. Dawson would have us believe that Gordon Head residents alone are responsible for this agitation to achieve some reasonable building and nuisance control. Such an assertion is at variance with the truth. The ratepayers' association of Ward Three is made up of residents of every walk of life and they come from every corner and district of the entire ward. As for the value of Mr. Dawson's intimation in his closing paragraph. I doubt if anyone but Mr. Dawson understands it. The value of the zoning by-law to the municipality as a whole is conceded by every thinking person. It will prevent the setting up of nuisances which later the council might have to subsidize to have removed. At the moment of writing the council is faced with compensating a fox farm to which some residents in another ward have raised objections. Allow me, sir, in closing, to say that the ratepayers' association of Ward Three deeply resent the intimation that this movement is motivated by selfishness on the part of a few. Rather, we think this is a forward-looking piece of legislation necessary for the future development of the ward, and for which we will be thanked in the years to come.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

JANUARY 24, 1911

Tokio, Jan. 24.—Foreign Minister Komura, in a speech to-day in the Lower House of the Diet, declared that the strengthening of the Anglo-Japanese alliance would be a powerful factor for continued peace in the Far East.

The Attorney-General's bill to curb the motor and the reckless chauffeur was the chief matter before the House to-day, the second reading stage being taken. It is intended to give all persons interested an opportunity to state their views while the bill is in progress.

Twelve prisoners from the Westminster jail were transferred to the Hillside Avenue jail yesterday to finish their terms of imprisonment. The change is made because of the crowded condition of the Westminster penitentiary.

Yesterday afternoon at the Metropolitan parlours Mr. Edward Godel and Miss S. Sanderson, both of Sooke, were united in matrimony by Rev. T. E. Helling.

The report of the city assessor and the city engineer on the matter of the extension of Pandora Street through from Harrison Street to Oak Bay Avenue has been referred back to those officials to consider the complaints of H. F. Heisterman and others that the assessment as proposed was inequitable.

In spite of the fact that they were playing a man short all the time, the Collegiate School beat the High School yesterday by two tries, both scored by Lafferty, to a goal kicked by Dickson from a try secured by Bob Steele.

CATHOLIC CLUB NAMES LEADERS

The annual elections of the Catholic Young People's Club were held last Wednesday evening. Before the elections took place two minutes' silence was kept for the late King George.

Prayers were said for the late Archbishop O'Donnell of Halifax. Austin Scarborough, assisted by Helen Tulik and Peter Hartnell, conducted the elections.

ducted the elections. The following were elected to office: President, James Grant; vice-president, Mona Kelpin; treasurer, Eulalie O'Neill; secretary, Doris Allen. Elected to the executive council were John Grant, Irene Bantty, Stella Hynes, and others.

The new president and the executive were welcomed to their new duties by the chaplain, Father Gaudette. Father Gaudette praised the retiring officials for their excellent work during the year.

Taking over their respective offices, the new council immediately held the first business meeting of the year. A resolution was passed to the effect that there would be no bowling next Tuesday, the day of the funeral of George Grant.

It was decided to advance the next business meeting to the first week in February. On February 12 a Valentine dance has been planned with Jack Christian as chairman of the dance committee.

CHURCHES FOR MINING CAMPS

Archbishop dePencier Tells of Extension of Anglican Activities

Extension of Anglican Church activities to include the mining camps of British Columbia is occupying the attention of the House of Bishops. It was stated at the Empress Hotel yesterday by Most Rev. Adam U. dePencier, Archbishop of the diocese of New Westminster.

Archbishop dePencier reached Victoria by the morning boat from Vancouver, accompanied by Bishop G. A. Rix of Caledonia; Bishop G. A. Wells of Cariboo, and Bishop W. R. Adams of Kootenay.

"We are building a church at Wells, new mining settlement, near Barkerville, and another is planned at Bridge River," said Archbishop dePencier.

"It is the hope of the church to extend its activities to other places in B.C., where mining populations are increasing."

The deputation of Anglican bishops was met at the Empress Hotel yesterday by Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, other bishops, and the Rev. Canon dePencier, rector of St. John's Church, Cathedral, and Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, rector of St. John's Church, CONFERENCE HERE

The bishops later proceeded to the residence of Bishop Schofield to take up with him church and legal matters. The bishops met all day Wednesday in Vancouver and adjourned to pay a visit to Victoria.

Work being considered by the House of Bishops, said Archbishop dePencier, included plans for the appointment of a new principal of the Anglican Theological College at Vancouver, left vacant by the death of Dr. Vance, and plans for the advancement of the forward movement for the evangelization of Canadian life.

Bishop Geddes of the Yukon which at present is attached to Rupertsland, has been attending the conference of the House of Bishops in an effort to get it linked with this province. This will probably be brought about, observed Archbishop dePencier.

The City Council at its meeting yesterday evening referred to the business and trades development committee an invitation from Mayor G. G. McGeer to attend Vancouver's golden jubilee celebrations and to co-operate in the staging of the events.

Similar action was taken with another letter from Vancouver's mayor asking Victoria's support for a British Empire exposition in the Terminal City in 1938.

SEED-GROWING PRIZES GIVEN

Donald Vantreight and Sidney School Receive Cups at Rotary Luncheon

Encouragement was given to Vancouver Island's young gardeners at yesterday's luncheon of the Rotary Club when prizes were presented to winners in the club's annual seed-growing contest.

Donald Vantreight, Royal Oak, carried off the Butchart Cup and a cash prize with a mark of 95.5; second was Campbell Warrender, Sidney, with 94.4, and third, Laura Young, Keating, with 90.67.

The Rotary Club cup for the school with the highest average went to Sidney for the fifth successive year. The cup was received by James Ramsay, principal of the school. Keating school was second and West Saanich third.

Prizes and certificates were presented to school winners as follows: Irene Villars, Sidney; Roy Jackson, Keating; Allan Duval, Prospect Lake; David Moir, Langford; Myrtle Stagg, West Saanich; Kenneth Clark, Shirley; Bernard Kellow, Royal Oak; James Horwood, Sooke; Laurence Jones, Saanichton.

The following received certificates: Maude Harness, Keating; Maurice Mitchell, Keating; Lorette de Lure, West Saanich; Bruce Baker, Sidney; Lorie Roberts, Sidney; Raymond Clark, Shirley.

The presentations were made by Prof. E. M. Straight of the Saanichton Experimental Farm.

ISLAND'S FIRST GARDEN The interesting and little-known history of the first garden on Vancouver Island, planted 150 years ago this year, was related to the club and the children who attended the luncheon by J. B. Munro, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. Munro referred to the story that Francis Drake had landed on the shores of this city in 1579, and planted the first acorns from which Victoria's many oak trees have sprung. He personally, he said, was inclined to believe this legend was true.

However, the first garden originated in 1876, through an attack of scurvy suffered by the crew of a British vessel which put in at Nootka. A makeshift hospital had been set up on shore, and to give the convalescents an opportunity to profit by nature's healing, a garden was started. John McKay, an Irishman, was put in charge of it. When the ship left Nootka, he stayed behind and tended his little plot.

There also remained behind with him a couple of goats, the first on the island, which played havoc with his garden. McKay was still there in 1877 when Captain Charles Barkley and his wife arrived. He returned to Europe with them.

TRANSFACIFIC HONEYMOON The Barkleys were an interesting couple. Captain Barkley met and married his wife in Ostend, on his way to the Pacific, and they had the distinction of being the first couple to spend a trans-Pacific honeymoon. It was also Barkley who first definitely proved the existence of the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

When the Spaniards took possession of Nootka, Don Pedro Gonzales, one of Quadra's officers, a great gardener, took over McKay's little plot, cleared it up, and planted there all the plants and vegetables of his own land. This garden in turn was taken over by Captain George Vancouver and his men.

Mr. Munro pointed out that the first garden of the mainland of British Columbia was not planted till twenty-five years later than McKay's plot.

Mr. Munro paid tribute to the work of the Rotary Club for the last twelve years in encouraging young people to take an interest in gardens.

He was introduced by Neil Lamont and thanked by Herbert J. Pender, president.

The club was entertained with two Japanese dances, in full costume, executed by eight young Japanese girls, to the accompaniment of recorded Japanese music.

The club members stood in silent tribute to the memory of King George V.

Mulberry trees, of song and silk-worm fame, will decorate the sunken garden at the Parliament Buildings when it is finished.

H. H. Reed, head gardener, announced to-day that half a dozen weeping mulberries have been ordered from the nursery at Escondido.

"These trees will probably be planted in a month's time. They will be six years old and five feet tall, so they should make quite a nice showing in their first year."

The mulberry trees will be set in the centre of each of the four beds surrounding the sun dial in the sunken garden. Mr. Reed points out that these trees are particularly adapted to this type of landscaping, as they will not grow any taller.

The executive of the city public works committee will interview Cpl. A. W. R. Wilby, agent here for the Department of Marine, to determine what powers he has over the local harbor and to take up with him those matters which the city sought to discuss with the central harbor board.

A communication from the Civil Employees' Federation, asking for a restoration of salary cuts, was referred to the estimates committee by the City Council yesterday evening.

Votes of sympathy were expressed by the City Council yesterday evening to the families of the late Mrs. Thomas Heasley and Major Peter Riddell on their recent bereavements.

French Coin May Prove Valuable

Leon Marchal, Saanich, Has Forty franc Gold Piece He Acquired Thirty-five Years Ago.

What may prove to be a really valuable old coin was brought into The Times newsroom by Leon Marchal, 215 Cadillac Avenue. It is a forty franc gold piece which he bought from an aged man who was dying in Culebra, France thirty-five years ago.

The coin is not catalogued and inquiries will be made of U.S. numismatists to determine whether it is of great value.

When Mr. Marchal was in Paris he saw a similar coin in a store window and when he made inquiries of its value he was told it was worth 10,000 francs as there were only two others like it.

On the front face of the coin is a picture of Napoleon with "Napoleon Empereur" engraved on it. On the other side is "Republique Francaise, 40 francs, A.N. 14." The latter initials and number may indicate the coin was minted in the fourteenth year of Napoleon's reign. Around the edge of the coin is "Dieu Protege la France."

MANY BROUGHT IN Among other interesting collections which have been brought into The Times have appeared many unusual coins, but in most instances they are not worth more than their face value.

Mrs. R. A. Foulis, 832 Lamson Street, has the following in her collection: Queen Victoria, 1898; George III, 1806; Des Centauros, 1864; Confederation of Canada; Un Sou, province du Bas Canada, 1837; George the Dragon, Bank of Upper Canada half-penny, 1850; and Old French and Portuguese coins.

An odd token, which originally was a six centimes piece, dated 1854, during the reign of Napoleon III is owned by Mrs. Emma Hocking, 1145 Rockland Avenue. It is now stamped "Mitchell, Sew Maker, Brighton."

Frank L. Kito, of Royal Oak, has two pieces of Manx currency. One is a 1758 halfpenny, with the credit of the Earl of Derby, Governor of the Isle of Man, and the other an 1859 farthing.

TRADING COMPANY TOKEN Mrs. N. M. Simister has a collection of 156 coins, among which are: an 1844 half franc; an 1847 U.S. one-cent piece; an 1870 Ceylon one-cent piece; a French five centimes, dated 1898; and an East India Trading Company one-cent token, dated 1845.

Mrs. Thomas Davies, 101 Oswego Street, has a U.S. liberty half-cent piece, an 1888 States of Jersey half shilling with Queen Victoria's head imprinted on it, and an 1837 two-cent piece with "To Hanover" engraved on it.

Rev. W. H. Cossap, 1203 Blanchard Street, has a fourpenny of King Henry IV's time; English halfpennies 1792 and 1774; Columbian half dollar 1893; and a halfpenny taken from Anglesey Mines which could be used in Anglesey, London or Liverpool.

I.O.E. PAYS ITS TRIBUTE

Municipal Chapter at Meeting Marks Passing of Late King

Eloquent testimony to the memory of the late King, together with sympathy for the bereaved Royal Family and an affirmation of loyalty to King Edward, was expressed in the tribute voiced by Mrs. W. Ellis, regent, at the opening of the monthly meeting of the Municipal Chapter I.O.E. yesterday afternoon.

The chapter also stood in silent tribute to the memory of Miss A. W. W. and of Dame Clara Butt.

An unusually large attendance marked the meeting, sixteen chapters being represented. Among the reports received was that of Mrs. E. O. Weston and the secretary requested that provincial council nomination papers be filled in and returned as soon as possible and asked the primary chapters for the names of members who have passed away during the year.

Mrs. F. F. Beckett read a report of the secondary education committee which told of the excellent progress of various bursary holders. Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps, the organizing secretary, who was absent on account of ill-health, sent in a written report which was read.

In the absence of Mrs. George Miles, the child welfare report was read, showing twenty-five hamper, as well as clothing and milk, had been sent at Christmas time to needy families.

It was with regret that the chapter received the resignation of Mrs. Andrew Mackenzie, convener of work in India, who had been obliged to give up on account of illness.

PEACE DONATION
Mrs. T. A. Johnston, distinguished visitors' convener, reported writing to and receiving from Miss Mary Dingman an interesting reply. As a outcome of this, the chapter voted $10 towards the peace and disarmament committee.

Mrs. C. W. Plumb, convener of soldiers' graves, presented a report, and a standing ovation of appreciation was given to her for her excellent work in this respect.

Mrs. P. E. Corby, Girl Guide convener, appealed for Guides, urging the great need of leaders in this worthwhile movement.

The annual meeting of Municipal Chapter will be held on March 26, when the members of Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie and Commodore Broughton Chapters will be the tea hostesses.

The nominations committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. H. Catterall, convener; Mrs. Cashmore and Miss Grimson. Entertainment for the Provincial Chapter annual meeting in April will be under the convener of Mrs. Kylie Symons.

COMPOSER AT FIFTY-FIVE

Mr. E. Goodman, Mme. d'Hardelot's friend for more than forty years and a director of Messrs. Chappell, her publishers, recalled to a reporter how her other songs had included "I Know a Lovely Garden," "Wait," "The Dawn," "I Send You Roses" and "I Hid My Love."

"She made her home in London at the beginning of the century," he went on, "and was always the centre of brilliant musical gatherings. "She was lavish in help and advice to struggling composers and singers, and even gave lessons to those who needed encouragement."

"She had a very considerable income from her compositions, but I know that she gave much money away."

Mme. d'Hardelot's only son was drowned at the age of sixteen, thirty years ago.

Girls' Informal "Get-acquainted" Supper Proves Success

The Y.W.C.A. clubs met together yesterday evening for an informal get-acquainted supper and evening programme.

One hundred and thirty-five girls, with members of the Girls' Department Committee, set down to supper tables decorated with daffodils and pussywillows, in the soft light of green and yellow candles.

Each club in turn soon identified itself by a rousing club song, and between courses Miss Margaret I. Ryan, Girls' Work Secretary, led all in a selection of popular songs.

After the supper a more formal session was held in the clubrooms. A period of silence was observed in memory of the late King George V.

Mrs. B. Felton, convener of the Girls' Department Committee, introduced the newly-appointed club council executive president, Violet Mylrea, of the Junior Business Club; vice-president, Dorothy Dudge, Y-Owens; secretary-treasurer, Edna Teague, Senior Business; Mrs. W. M. Walker, also of the committee, spoke a few words of welcome and wished the council all success for the months ahead.

The new council president then took the chair and called upon the presidents of each club to tell the other groups about the interesting things which they have been doing so far this year. Reports were given from the Senior Business Club by Lillian Leask, Versatile Club by Pat Kerchin, Y-Owens Club by Vivian Doule, Junior Business Club by Ruth Adams, Outdoor Club by Pat Moulie, Pirates Club by Margaret Lambie, Typing Group by Frances Wood and Department Report by Violet Mylrea.

The next part of the programme was held in the recreation room where each club put on a clever skit. There was great variety in plot, scenery and costumes, bringing many a hearty laugh, and much applause from the audience. The various skits were: "The Modern Cinderella," by Junior Business Club; "The Evolution of the Bathing Suit," by Swimming Club; "The Skating Dance," by Tap Dancing Club; "The Railway Station," by Pirates Club; "Reminiscing," by Outdoor Club; "The Kid's Party," by Senior Business Club; "Pyramid," by Gym Class; "Stunt," by Basketball Team; "Daisy Bell," by Tap Dancing Club; "The Little Red School House," by Versatile Club; "Pantomime," symbolizing the Y.W.C.A. by Y-Owens Club.

Local Woman Treasures Old Souvenir of Kipling

Mrs. John J. Burns Met Poet During South African War Days; As Nursing Sister on "Maine" Was Presented to Queen Victoria

An interesting souvenir of the late Rudyard Kipling is among the treasured possessions of Mrs. John J. Burns, Craigmiller Avenue. The souvenir is a facsimile copy of "The Absent-minded Beggar," from the original poem by Kipling, and illustrated with a drawing of Kipling as he appeared in 1899, by John Collier and of "A Gentleman in Khaki," by R. Caton Woodville.

The poem was copyrighted in England and the United States and published by The Daily Mail and copies sold for the benefit of the wives and children of the reservists in the South African War.

Mrs. Burns was privileged to be among those who sold these poems at an evening, "at home" in the Hotel Cecil on Monday, December 4, 1899, when, with three other nursing sisters, she was a guest in London awaiting the sailing of the American hospital ship Maine for Delagoa Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudyard Kipling were among the distinguished guests of the evening, and the young nursing sisters had the pleasure of talking for some time with the poet and his wife.

SERVED ON HOSPITAL SHIP
The story of the hospital ship, as related by Mrs. Burns, and her six weeks' sojourn in London, is of particular interest at this time. Of the 7,000 or 8,000 Canadian soldiers who enlisted in the South African campaign, it is extremely likely, too, that some of them passed at least a part of their convalescence aboard the hospital ship Maine as it lay off Durban in Delagoa Bay.

The Society of American Ladies, residing in London at that time, headed by Lady Randolph Churchill, offered to the British Government a completely staffed and equipped hospital ship to care for the British wounded. The generous offer was accepted and the liner Maine was lent by the Atlantic Transport Line for the purpose, making two trips to South Africa.

Mrs. Burns, then Miss Sara MacVean, a native of New York State and a graduate of Bellevue Hospital, was one of the four nursing sisters chosen. The ship sailed from New York on November 11, 1899, for England, where for six weeks the medical staff and sisters were elaborately feted.

The highlight of the sojourn in England was the luncheon in their honor at Windsor Castle. During the luncheon, at which a magnificent gold service was used, they were told that Queen Victoria would receive them at 3 o'clock.

Promptly at that hour, the Queen entered the Long Gallery, leaning on the arm of an Indian attendant and accompanied by Princess Beatrice, and each of the nursing sisters was presented to Her Majesty.

Mrs. Burns was particularly impressed with the fascinating smile of this "very little woman, but every inch a queen," who regarded them so benignly.

Her Majesty spoke a few words to each, and then addressed them all: "It is very sweet of you to have come, and I want to say how much I appreciate your kindness in coming here to take care of my men."

Before their departure from the castle the American visitors were shown throughout the royal apartments, and signed their names in the special visiting book, opposite to those of the Hohenzollerns.

Later in the afternoon they were guests of Princess Christian at tea at Cumberland Lodge, Princess Louise was also their hostess at Kensington Palace, showing them through the royal residence. Other visits were paid to some of Britain's noble houses.

RECEIVED GIFTS
On December 23, 1899, the Maine sailed for South Africa. Before the ship left the nurses received lovely gifts. Mrs. Richards, whose nom de plume "John Oliver Hobbs" has made her so famous, came aboard with specially designed souvenir spoons for each one. Mrs. Richards was accompanied by Madame Jonatha, court pianist, who played for them and who had brought her black cat to bring them good luck.

The American women in London presented each nurse with a gold chain and an enameled pendant of the Union Jack, with the Stars and Stripes, and the name "Maine" written below the crossed flags. The Countess of Essex presented Miss MacVean with a jeweled purse.

When the war was ended and the medical staff and nurses of the Maine had returned to their homes in the United States, they received from Queen Victoria, through the British Ambassador at Washington, Sir Michael Herbert, the Military medals which the Queen had conferred upon them in recognition of their services to her soldiers. The medals bear a profile of Queen Victoria on one side, and on the reverse allegorical figures of Britannia and South Africa, with the name of the medical officer or nurse engraved on the edge of the medal.

QUARTETTE IN FINE RECITAL

Hart House Musicians Thrill Big Audience With Their Art

By G.J.D.
Of more than ordinary interest to a large Victoria audience was the visit of the Hart House String Quartette, in a recital at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening. It was an occasion when the famous string players came to us with their recently appointed new leader, Mr. James Levey, and when he and his three confederates came forward to the platform they were greeted with spontaneous outbursts of applause.

Schumann once said that Sebastian Bach is the musicians' Bible, and too in many ways it may be said that in a string quartette, its leader is its Bible.

The Hart House Quartette is an important Canadian institution, which in its years of extreme usefulness has found wide fame. Each player on its respective instrument is a musician from the heart to the finger tips, and is now composed of James Levey, its leader, and first violin, H. Arn Adaskin, second violin, Milton Blackstone, viola, and Boris Hambourg, cellist.

In its re-creative atmosphere the quartette played yesterday as a giant refreshed. That was soon made apparent when the four artists settled down to the opening quartette, Mozart's D minor, No. 13. Here the pellucid was invested with beauty in its co-ordinated and fine spirit of accomplishment, nearly all problems having been solved and reduced to a common denominator, interpretation planned down to an exquisite definition. Above all the timbre between the four instruments was of the highest level, and unity of purpose and feeling.

Surely have they found out all that there is in chamber music, and in the many thrilling moments throughout the evening the beauty of the pure, sweet pulsating sounds issuing from the four instruments was beyond words, with especial reference to the lovely "Canzonette" (Mendelssohn); the divine Molt Adagio, in the concluding quartette; Beethoven's E minor, Op. 29, No. 2, and again in the Andante of the Mozart.

Finished art, too, was in the contrasting, gay and jolly Minuetts, in its sheer Mozartian melodic beauty, that stirred the audience to enthusiasm, as did the more robust music of "Red Murdoch," by J. B. McEwen, the principal of the R.A.M. London.

which followed the superb sostenuto of Johann Sebastian's "The Lonely Shepherd."

BEETHOVEN QUARTETTE

The great number was, of course, the Beethoven Quartette, representative of the great composer's second period, and the favorite example was rich alike in spirit and sentiment of the beautiful music. In this, as with all these artists did the pianissimo and shading were perfect, and not were they merely faithful interpreters, or content with a faultless "ensemble" for its performance was especially remarkable for its individuality and those present will not soon forget the first violin's delightful playing of the reiterated opening of the melody on the E string.

This was, in truth a splendid piece of work, and following its conclusion they were twice summoned to the platform, the clamorous plaudits finding reward in a lovely bit of playing of Tchaikovsky's famous "Andante Cantabile."

In tribute of the death of King George V, the quartette opened the programme with the Scottish lament, "Flowers of the Forest," this being followed with all singing the measured strains of the National Anthem.

The visit of the quartette was sponsored by Violet Wilson (Frederic Shipman Concerts), and the Beaux Arts Society.

LOST HER SUIT AGAINST HOTEL

Actress Claimed Damages For Alleged Humiliation By Calgary Hotel

Canadian Press
Calgary, Jan. 24.—Miss Elizabeth Bellairs, former New York actress, who refused to tell her age, lost her suit yesterday for $125 damages for alleged "humiliation" and breach of contract against the York Hotel of Calgary.

Judge W. A. Macdonald in district court dismissed the suit. Miss Bellairs claimed her room was closed to her because she had declined to pay the bill. She said the hotel charged her $1.50 a day for her room instead of $15 a month.

The actress testified she was forced to go out on the streets with only 30 cents in her possession, her property having been retained by the hotel. "A hotel keeper is not bound to receive a guest until the price of accommodation is tendered," Judge Macdonald ruled. "He is not obliged to accommodate a guest on trust. He may eject a guest for proper cause."

Lady Astor And Mrs. Catt Talk

Exchange Peace Views Over Transatlantic Telephone

Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 24.—Lady Astor and Carrie Chapman Catt, peace crusaders of Great Britain and the United States, yesterday discussed over transatlantic telephone the threat of another European war.

The 750 delegates attending the cause and cure of war conference here listened in.

"What do you think is the prospect of a general war in Europe?" asked Mrs. Catt. "We are much worried about it here."

"Alarming!" answered Lady Astor. "Large wars always start with little ones."

The woman who has held a seat in Parliament longer than any other—Lady Astor—and the woman who has held a suffrage office longer than any other—Mrs. Catt—agreed that no millennium had arrived since they clasped hands for peace in 1920.

"We hope and expected the world would be freed from the burden of armament, but look at us now!" exclaimed Lady Astor.

"In Russia, women can vote, but they can't think aloud and you and I don't call that freedom. In Italy, they can neither think nor vote. As for armaments, the world is depending more on them than they did in 1914. Japan tried it and got away with it. Italy is trying it—and we hope and pray won't get away with it."

MARRIES BEFORE FINAL DECREE

Associated Press

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 23.—Mrs. Mae Keaton, divorced wife of frozen-faced Buster Keaton of the films, married Sam Fuller, Hollywood writer, in La Jolla, Mexico, yesterday.

The marriage ceremony was performed despite the fact Mrs. Keaton's divorce does not become final until next October. The couple said after the ceremony they would occupy separate homes in Los Angeles until the final decree is entered, to comply with the California law.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MAKE OLDER CHILD SURE OF YOUR LOVE, EVEN AFTER THE NEW BABY COMES

The only child, who has enjoyed the exclusive affection of his parents, suffers a real blow when he is compelled to divide this with another child. Jealousy is the name of his emotions, but his actions are those of a bewildered, frightened child who suddenly feels himself bereft of parental attention and love.

Mrs. A. L. K. writes: "My three-year-old is constantly trying to attract my attention since the birth six months ago of his little sister. I thought he would outgrow this by now, but he is worse. When I scold or punish him he gets nervous, and when his Daddy punishes him, he becomes nauseated."

UNDERSTANDING NEEDED
He has started waking two or three times at night and wanting a light on. When company is there he annoys me so by demanding notice. I haven't time to give him so much attention, as now I do all my own work and have the baby to care for."

Every mother has the time it takes to prevent the child growing up with this bitter emotion toward the baby who has taken his place. It doesn't take so much time as understanding. Our leaflet, "How to Deal With Jealousy," may be had for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

SHOW YOUR LOVE
Your duty is to convince the boy in all kinds of ways of your continued affection for him. Give him a new place as "only son," as "mother's helper," which he can very well be—and as "only brother," to compensate him for the loss of his place as only child.

Appreciate his emotions, his fear of losing your love, which he now thinks is given to his sister, and you'll better understand how to convince him that his fears are groundless. Don't expect him to take your love for granted. Express it.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

FALL BACK ON CANNED VEGETABLES FOR WINTER VITAMINS

By MARY E. DAGUE

There was some excuse in grandma's day for serving unbalanced meals, but with all kinds of canned goods on the grocer's shelves, it is no problem to plan winter menus with essential vegetables. Here are recipes that make use of canned vegetables:

LIMA BEAN CROQUETTES

Two cups cooked lima beans, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons melted butter or bacon fat, 1/2 cup canned tomato, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, flour, egg, dried bread crumbs, salt and pepper.

Canned or cooked dried lima can be used. Put beans through food chopper. Melt fat or butter and brown the onion. Add beans, tomato and seasonings. Cook over a low fire, stirring to prevent sticking, until thick. Spread on a platter to cool and become firm. Form into croquettes, roll in flour, dip in egg slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon water. Roll in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in forty seconds, or 385 degrees F. on a fat thermometer.

JELLIED SAUERKRAUT VEGETABLE SALAD

This is an unusual salad that is inviting on a cold January night when pork in some fashion is served. One and one-half cups sauerkraut juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1/2 cup carrot strips, 1/2 cup diced cooked beets, 2 drops tabasco sauce, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Bring sauerkraut juice to boiling point and add softened gelatin. Add sugar and stir until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Let cool a few minutes and add lemon juice and tabasco sauce. When the mixture begins to thicken, add vegetables. Turn into a mold and let stand on ice to chill and become firm. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise. If a ring mold is used, fill the centre with hearts of lettuce garnished with snips of pimiento.

BAKED EGGS WITH SPINACH AND BACON

This dish is really a triumph because the staunchest spinach dissembler will eat and forget he is eating spinach. One cup cheese sauce, 1 1/2 cups cooked spinach (it will take about 2 pounds fresh spinach to make this amount cooked), 1/2 teaspoon horseradish, 4 eggs, 4 thin slices bacon.

Mix horseradish thoroughly with spinach. Put 4 tablespoons cheese sauce in the bottom of each of four individual ramikins. Add a layer of spinach and break an egg onto this. Sprinkle with pepper and cover with bacon cut to fit ramikin. Bake in a moderate oven until eggs are set and bacon is crisp.

Y.P.S. BURNS' NIGHT

Another interesting and profitable evening is planned for the regular Monday night meeting of the Metropolitan United Church Young People's Society. The programme is inspired by the anniversary of Robert Burns' birthday, and is appropriately entitled, "A Night Among the Heather." The members are asked to keep this date in mind, and any other young person who is not associated with another group is most cordially invited to attend this gathering.

The drama group of the Metropolitan United Church Y.P.S. is planning to produce the three-act play "The Rock," by Mary P. Hamlin, in the near future. This is a deeply moving spiritual play depicting the life of Simon Peter.

CONCERT POSTPONED

Owing to the death of His Late Majesty the concert to have been given by students of the Dominion Academy of Music at the Shrine Auditorium, January 29, has been postponed until Friday, January 31.

Alderman J. D. Hunter will represent the city on the public library board for 1936 and Rev. Robert Connel and Kenneth Ferguson will be city delegates for the two-year terms of 1936 and 1937. A recommendation to that effect brought before the council by Mayor David Leeming yesterday evening was approved.

Tony departed, leaving Larry to stare after him at the prints while his mind raced on furiously. Jean Dunn in the company of the most notorious gang of bank robbers in America—it couldn't be! It was too wild, absurdly impossible to think twice about. And yet... that old infatuation with Sandy Harkins; the fact that Jean worked for a crooked lawyer who seemed to be the gang's mouthpiece; this sudden inexplicable absence from town; these women's fingerprints on the silver—well, he'd know for sure, soon enough.

He waited in rising impatience until, at last, the girl at the outer switchboard announced the arrival of Bobby Wallace. Larry asked her to send him in at once, and when the young man arrived Larry barely paused to shake hands with him before saying, "Let's see it, Bobby."

Bobby handed him the sheet of note paper on which, after dinner, Jean Dunn had made an impression of her fingerprints. Larry laid it on the desk beside the unidentified prints Tony had copied from the table knife. As he bent over them, comparing them with cold exactness, his face became grey and hard; when, at last, he stood erect and looked at Bobby his eyes were very tired.

"What's it all about?" asked Bobby. "Just this," said Larry. "Jean Dunn is—or was, six hours ago—in the company of Red Jackson and his gangsters!"

The hired sedan from the county seat sped swiftly over the road to Midlothian, bearing Larry, Glenn, Tony La Rocca, and Al Peters; behind it came another car with the county sheriff and three of his deputies, their last hastily enlisted by Larry on the theory that local co-operation never comes amiss. The two cars covered the ten miles to the Engle farm in just over eleven minutes, and spun into the driveway with a crunching of tires on gravel and a whining of brakes.

Mrs. Engle was standing in the back yard. She let out one yell—a frightened squawk for her husband—and then froze into immobility as a bulky deputy sheriff swaggered over and told her that, since she was under arrest, she would do well to keep quiet.

Engle came out the back door just in time to encounter the federal men. Larry thrust a search warrant under his nose; the farmer blinked at it, read it, and then looked up sourly.

"Yeah," he said bitterly. "Askin' questions for the triple-A. I ought to be known—"

He too, subsided as a deputy took him in tow, and the raiders went into the house.

The dishes on the kitchen table had been washed, since morning, and as they went upstairs they discovered that the bedrooms had all been aired and straightened and the beds remade with fresh linen. Glancing out a back window, Larry saw the sheets that Mrs. Engle had lugged into the kitchen during his earlier visit fluttering on the clothes line.

Having been cleaned and straightened, the bedrooms contained little trace of their occupants of the night before. After half an hour's careful peering and prying, Larry came down the stairs despondently, convinced that the house was empty, no clue as to the gangster's destination. There remained, then, only the tedious process of combing the countryside for traces of them—now, of all times, when Larry wanted to make speed on the trail more than he had ever wanted it in all his life!

He turned to the stuffy front parlor where the Engles sat in glum silence under the supervision of two deputy sheriffs. There was nothing to do, he supposed, but to start quizzing them in the hope that some information might be extracted.

The telephone in the hall tinkled. Engle involuntarily started to rise, only to be jerked back to his seat by the heavy hand of a deputy. Larry looked keenly at the two captives. The phone tinkled again, and the eyes of the man and woman became anxious.

Larry went to the phone, took the receiver from the hook, and said, "Hello." The operator's voice said, "Portsmouth is calling Mr. Fred Engle."

"This is Engle," said Larry. He heard the prisoner in the parlor give a muffled gasp; then the operator's voice, far off, said, "All right, Portsmouth—ready with Mr. Engle." A moment later a man's voice came on the line.

"Hello—Engle," the man said. Listen, Jack Floyd may show these this afternoon or to-night. If he does, tell him we're at French Pete's. Got it?"

Larry tried to give his voice the sullen, despondent tone that Engle always seemed to use.

"If Jack Floyd comes, you're at French Pete's," said Larry. There was a click as the man hung up. Larry replaced the receiver and called loudly for Al Peters. When that agent came down the stairs Larry ordered him to go to the telephone company office in Midlothian at once and try to trace the call that had just been made. Then he summoned La Rocca, and the sheriff and told them of the call. "Portsmouth's about 120 miles north of here," said the sheriff reflectively. "That's a long way out of my bailiwick. I never heard of any French Pete's. Maybe we can sweat it out of the Engles, though." "We'll try it," said Larry. "Only listen, Mister Sheriff—if they won't tell us, we can't."

The sheriff looked at him and nodded, grinning.

"Sure," he said, "you mean no third degree. I don't go for it myself, but they say sometimes it does help."

So, the girl at the outer switchboard announced the arrival of Bobby Wallace. Larry asked her to send him in at once, and when the young man arrived Larry barely paused to shake hands with him before saying, "Let's see it, Bobby."

Bobby handed him the sheet of note paper on which, after dinner, Jean Dunn had made an impression of her fingerprints. Message From King to Canada

Edward VIII Assures Premier He Appreciates Sympathy of People

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 24.—King Edward yesterday expressed appreciation of the sympathy and good wishes of the Canadian people in a message to Prime Minister King. The message follows:

"Prime Minister, Ottawa, Ontario: Please accept my heartfelt thanks for your message of sympathy. Throughout his life my beloved father had the welfare of the Canadian people at heart, and it is a source of comfort to me to know that they are thinking of me in my great sorrow and wishing me well in the future."

On the day of King George's death Premier King sent Edward a message of sympathy on behalf of the government and people of Canada.

Three former Governors-General of Canada have united with the government and people of Canada in mourning the loss of King George and have acknowledged messages of sympathy sent them by Prime Minister King.

From the Earl of Bessborough, who ended his term as Governor-General last autumn, the following cable was received by the Prime Minister yesterday:

"Lady Bessborough and I are much touched by your kind message on behalf of the government and people of Canada. We all mourn the loss of King George and have acknowledged messages of sympathy sent them by Prime Minister King."

Messages had been received earlier from Lord Willingdon, Viceroy of India, and the Duke of Connaught, the late King's uncle.

The Truth About Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

Vitamin D is called the "sunshine vitamin," and a very apt name it is. Supplying health-giving benefits of solar rays, it has brightened the lives of thousands of youngsters, helping them to build straight, sturdy bodies.

Long before anything was known about vitamins, it was found that cod liver oil was good for children with the bone-weakening ailment, rickets.

In 1923, scientists learned that one substance in cod liver oil was responsible.

At one time, before there was such a thing as window glass, and before people began herding together in sunless slums—rickets was not a common disease. But overcrowding and industrialization began and, in Great Britain, rickets became so prevalent it was dubbed the "English disease."

Failure of growing bones to absorb calcium and phosphorus as calcium phosphate brings about the disease. The bones bend and bow-legs appear. The ribs puff out and become heaped at the ends. A "pot belly" is not an unusual symptom.

Because the mucous membranes and other tissues of the body are affected, the afflicted child develops snuffles.

To-day we know that vitamin D is most important in the treatment of rickets. And it may be absorbed into the body in any one of several ways.

Irradiation by the short or invisible rays of the sun, causing the body to develop its own vitamin D, is one way. Ultraviolet rays, developed artificially from a carbon arc or mercury vapor quartz lamp, has a similar effect.

These same rays may be permitted to act on a chemical substance called ergosterol, producing a concentrate of vitamin D, which, in turn, may be added to milk. Food may be irradiated and develop vitamin D out of its own chemical content, or cows may be fed irradiated yeast and give milk containing vitamin D. And, of course, cod liver oil or other fish oils rich in vitamin D may be taken.

Remember, however, that in addition to this valuable vitamin, the growing body should have enough calcium and phosphorus in the diet to aid in formation of bones and teeth, a process which, incidentally, needs proper action of the parathyroid glands.

Q.—I have been suffering from painful feet and I can be on them only a short time. One doctor told me to go barefoot; another says never to step out of bed without wearing shoes. They say the transverse arch is weak. The little toe joints are enlarged and painful, and a bunion is developing. What is the correct thing to do?

A.—The term "painful feet" is as indefinite as "stomach trouble" or "heart disease," so it is impossible to learn the appropriate treatment without a proper diagnosis by an orthopedic surgeon. Footills can be greatly ameliorated, if not permanently relieved, by an orthopedic surgeon.

HANNAY LOSES APPEAL POINT

After four affidavits had been presented by Arthur Leighton, Crown counsel, contradicting the joint affidavit of George Hannay and A. H. Jones, regarding alleged expressions used by Mr. Leighton in his address to the Nanaimo assize jury, the B.C. Court of Appeal yesterday rejected the first point in the joint appeal of Jones and Hannay.

The two men are appealing against a seven-year sentence imposed by Mr. Justice Robertson at the Nanaimo assizes in December, on a charge of breaking into a Parkville store and stealing goods to the value of $14.75. The Crown is also appealing against the acquittal of Hannay at the same assizes on a charge of being in possession of keys, oil and grease stolen from the Union Oil Company in Nanaimo.

The appeal of Jones and Hannay is proceeding before the Appeal Court with Hannay acting as lawyer for himself and co-defendant. Hannay claim—Mr. Leighton in his address to the Nanaimo jury referred to him as a sinister and dangerous man, up to all the tricks to defeat the ends of justice. Affidavits were produced by Mr. Leighton this morning from Harry Langely, court stenographer; Robert T. Coveney, sheriff of Nanaimo; V. C.

Fawcett, court registrar, and Mrs. Constance Cunningham, all of whom said they heard Mr. Leighton's address to the jury, but did not hear the words complained of. Hannay insisted the words were used. “We were interested parties and had reason to remember them,” he said. “Three persons sign an affidavit six weeks later to something they cannot remember. I can remember every word Crown counsel said. I had every reason to remember them and I noted them down at the time. Six weeks is a long time for people to remember who are not directly interested.”

Jones also told the court he distinctly heard the words used. “I drew Hannay's attention to them at the time,” he commented. He also claimed that he and Hannay could have got affidavits from other people in Nanaimo to this effect had there been time. “I am not familiar with court procedure. This is my first time in a case of this kind,” he replied when asked why he raised no objection at the time.

With the court ruling against the two appellants on the point, Hannay proceeded with the next point of the appeal, that through changes in the date of the assizes and the refusal to traverse the case to the spring assizes, he and Jones were unable to produce witnesses for the defence whom, he claimed, would have proved delay by crown counsel in replying to communications and short notice of the date the trial was to be held.

New Zealand All-Blacks Reach Vancouver For B.C. Matches

THE SPORTS MIRROR

MUCH DISCUSSION is taking place around the National Hockey League circuit over which team got the better of the recent trade which sent Earl Selbert to the Chicago Black Hawks and Art Coulter to the New York Rangers. Members of the Montreal Maroons think Chicago came off best in the deal. Cy Wentworth, who is a pretty fair rear guard, himself votes for Selbert. "Selbert is a durable player. He can hit a terrific body check. When he goes at top speed he is one of the best in the business. Coulter is a good man, too, but if I had to pick between the pair I would take Selbert," said Cy. He should know their respective values.

And then there is another angle to the Coulter trade. According to reports, Major Frederic McLaughlin, fiery president of the Chicago dressing-room after a recent game in which the Chicago club was beaten by the Maroons. He hurled some very acid remarks at Coulter. It is claimed he wound up by challenging the defence man to a fistfight. That may be merely hearsay, but it is recalled that quite a few stories were current some years ago about the Major, who was considered to be quite a lad when it came to expounding his viewpoint to referees or players.

Coulter, of course, is a tough nut to crack. He was in a tough spot, as response would have meant he was battling with his employer. So McLaughlin held all the percentages, if he acted in the belligerent fashion credited to him.

The Major at one time is reported to have challenged a referee to battle because of some grievance over a penalty. The official ignored the defiance, ordered the room to be cleared. The Major is on imposing-looking personage over six feet tall. He is broad in proportion, polo player in summer, squash enthusiast in winter. He keeps fit at all times.

He is reported to be quite a handy lad with his fists. It may all seem very undignified to him, but even an N.H.L. governor should go around chasing players, but if any of them feel that way it is suggested that there are all kinds of delightful possibilities to the idea.

William S. O'Brien, front man for the William T. Tilden company, declares that the United States Lawn Tennis Association carried its silly war against the professionals to such extent that Betsy Grant, Atlanta's Mighty Midget, has been promised a place on America's 1936 Davis Cup team for remaining in the fold.

Grant is entitled to a thorough trial and probably would be a member of the squad regardless of any pledge. O'Brien, who offered Grant $15,000 for five months of travel, says that he merely cites the Georgian's case to illustrate how far the amateur bigwigs will go to keep the boys in line.

Touring Ruggers Open Three-game Series To-morrow

Will Oppose Pick of Mainland Clubs; Second Game Billed Monday

PLAY VICTORIA ON WEDNESDAY

Vancouver, Jan. 24.—Twenty-nine men, composing the world-famous New Zealand All-Blacks, touring English rugby squad, stepped lightly off the train into a swirling Vancouver mist yesterday evening after a long train trip from eastern Canada.

The New Zealanders will pit themselves against a Vancouver aggregation composed of the pick of Vancouver rugby squads. The first game will be played here to-morrow and the other on Monday.

Taking the midnight boat for Victoria, B.C., the famous visitors are scheduled to tangle with a picked Victoria aggregation on Wednesday before boarding the ship that will carry them home.

Dressed for the most part in baggy plus fours the team stepped to the platform to be greeted by a large crowd of their friends and others who sought their autographs.

"It's been a long journey and we're certainly glad to be here and are looking forward to a pleasant stay in Vancouver," said V. R. Meredith, the team's manager.

Outside of a few minor injuries the boys are all in the best of shape and are looking forward to their contests here," continued the manager.

The injuries he referred to were minor cuts suffered when members of the team, feeling frisky, took leave from the train at stopovers to frolic in the snow.

Vancouver sports writers traveling with the team told of the life the team spent aboard the train.

Except for the New Zealand accent, they are just like so many Canadian boys of the same age, well behaved but having the time of their lives playing bridge and poker for coppers, keeping diaries and writing letters.

Solomon, one of the wingers, is wearing two black eyes and an injured nose when he went tobogganing in Montreal.

Two Pullman cars were occupied by the team on the trip across the continent and except for a dining room which was used by Meredith as an office, the space was shared equally. The players were allowed $25 per day for meals on the train and made good use of it.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Before the invasions of North Italy by Attila and his horde of Huns, the area that is now Venice was a clump of islands, inhabited by none but a few hardy fishermen who, thanks to the mud banks and swamps that cut them off from the rest of the world, enjoyed almost complete independence.

Old Boys Rugby Match To-morrow

Exhibition Fixture Against Picked Senior League All-stars Scheduled as Feature on Week-end Card

That much-postponed classic between the University School Old Boys and a team selected from the Victoria Senior Rugby League will feature to-morrow's rugby card. Two intermediate games will be played.

The Old Boys-Rest game is scheduled to start at Macdonald Park at 2:45 o'clock with Benny McMillan handling the whistle. A touch or two of jumbo and a couple of cases of 'flu along with the union's refusal to let them use such graduate stars as Paul Rowe, Doug Peden and Harry Fearns, has drained some of the strength from the Old Boys line-up, but the team still represents a very strong threat against the senior league squad.

The Mount Toimie boys will have "Boney" Hamber as fullback, Frank Skillings, Arnie Phillips, Reg Wenman and Renwick on the three-quarter line. Bobby Tye and "Blinkie" Tisdall will be halfbacks, and the forwards are expected to include Paddy Walton, George Dunlop, Bert Buller, Jack Brydon, Clive Campbell, Dick George Neale and Archie Miller.

For the city league team Roddy McInnes will play fullback, while the three will be Wurtele, Halbert, Watson and Speed Symons and Martin will be in charge of the scrum and the following will comprise the pack: McEae, Barker, Urquhart, Doull, Briggs, Johnson, Osmen and Featherstone.

John Grant will handle the wand-off at 1:30 o'clock. Lake Hill line-up will be as follows: Harper, Little, Kitchen, Culien, Hunt, Warren, Newman, Speller, Hayward and Dunn. Reserves, Underwood, Coles and Simpson.

Edmonton-Seattle Clubs Still Climb

ALL-STAR MAT CARD BILLED

Baptiste Paul to Meet DeVora in Semi-final on Weekly Show

Featuring some of the best wrestlers on the continent, Promotor Fred Richardson has lined up an all-star mat programme for his weekly card to be staged to-morrow evening at the Tillamook gym. The opening bout will start at 8:45 o'clock.

Baptiste Paul, local Indian, is billed to meet Dr. Nap DeVora, rough and ready pachyderm from Providence, R.I. In the semi-final, Paul, who is known as "Chief Thunderbolt," has appeared before local fans on a number of occasions, and has proven quite popular. DeVora made his initial appearance here a couple of weeks ago, and held King Elliott to a draw. These two lads will no doubt put on a great show, as they battle it out in their scheduled five eight-minute bouts.

U.S. Olympic Ice Team Held to Tie

Brighton, Eng. Jan. 24.—The American Olympic hockey team tied with a team of resident Canadians here yesterday evening, 6 to 6.

CANADIENS AND CHICAGO IN TIE

Americans 3, Toronto 2.
Canadiens 1, Chicago 1.
Detroit 4, Rangers 2.

If there ever was a closer race in the National Hockey League than the one the Canadian division is providing at the moment the fans who stared popped at the standings today would like some of the documents and prove it. The closest race in years has been overworked in describing tight league fights, but this one really is. The battling yesterday evening left only three points separating the first and last clubs, an unprecedented situation permitting a team to jump from the bottom to the top in two games.

With half the schedule finished the teams are practically where they started last November. On the basis of figures it's strictly a toss-up which of the four teams will be eliminated from Stanley Cup competition.

LEAFS STILL SLIP

Toronto Maple Leafs, only two points from the cellar now and sliding steadily since the year started, complicated the situation by losing in overtime to Americans in New York. Conny Smyth's team would have gone into the lead over Montreal Maroons again had they won, but instead Red Dutton's Americans took the game 3 to 2 on Joe Jerwa's goal and tied Canadiens, who played a 1-1 draw with Chicago at Montreal, for third place. Compared to the situation in the Canadian division, Detroit Red Wings are walking away with the American section. They went into a three-point lead over Chicago by defeating New York Rangers 4 to 2 in Detroit. Seven points separate Red Wings and Boston Bruins, the trailers.

Playing without Charlie Conacher, who is injured, Leafs lost their sixth game this year after holding a two-goal lead over Americans. In eight games they have won only one and tied one.

Bill Toms and Buzz Boll, high scorers among the Leafs, now gave the Torontoites a comfortable loss with Happy Emms. Americans, was on the penalty bench.

Joe Jerwa had a hand in the Thomas goal, passing to the Toronto wingman in error when he attempted to clear Red Horner's pass. He made up for the first time yesterday, scoring on a power play with Doc Romnes, Johnny Gottselig and Mush March.

That was in the tenth-minute of the second period, and Canadiens

SERIOUSLY ILL

BUN COOK

Detroit, Jan. 24.—Manager Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers said yesterday evening his veteran left-winger, Bun Cook, is suffering from multiple arthritis and probably will not play again this season. Only time will tell, said Patrick, whether the younger of the famous Cook brothers ever will play again. Brother Bill, however, was not so pessimistic. "I think Bun will be able to play the latter part of the season," he said. "The doctors in New York are hopeful, but I think he will be all right and I think so, too."

M'AVOY WILL FIGHT LEWIS

British Scrapper to Get Chance at Light Heavyweight Title on April 3

New York, Jan. 24.—Jack McAvoy, the British battler who came to North America three months ago swearing he would take both the middle and light-heavyweight titles back to England, is going to get his chance at the first of them on April 3.

Madison Square Garden yesterday signed John Henry Lewis to defend his 175-pound crown against the first-throwing Briton in a fifteen-rounder in the Garden. All that remains is to get the official O.K. of the New York State Athletic Commission, which probably will vote approval next Tuesday.

McAvoy, holder of the British middle and light-heavy crowns, has fought twice in the United States. Both times he made tremendous impressions.

Andre Lenglet, newest French heavyweight importation, makes his American debut in the Garden to-night in a ten-rounder with Hans Birke, German.

Lenglet's record shows he won forty-seven of his forty-nine starts abroad, and he once fought a draw with Tommy Loughnan, veteran Philadelphia campaigner.

Primo Carnera, the Italian man mountain, lumbered back into New York yesterday after a holiday visit home during which he did two weeks of compulsory military training.

It is probable his first 1936 ring start will be against the winner of the Lenglet-Birke fight. Primo said they would not let him join the Italian army because there were too many applicants ahead of him.

Women's Medal At Macaulay Course

Fourteen women will tie off in the monthly medal competition at the Macaulay Golf Club, Sunday. Competitors will select their own starting times and post entries will be accepted.

FINE GAMES ARE CARDED

Basketball Squads in Important Clashes at High School Gym To-night

One of the best hoop cards of the season is scheduled at the High School gym to-night. The first fixture in the senior B play-offs will provide the feature attraction. The other two tussles will bring together intermediate A and B squads, who are also fighting for play-off berths.

Kingham-Gillespie, third berth squad, will oppose the Chinese Students, second place team, in the main encounter. It will be the opening of the senior B play-offs. Kingham-Gillespie took the Students into camp a week ago, and it should be a tough battle before a victor is decided.

Trade-Ars and Lynn Patrick's Aces, keen rivals in the intermediate A race, will go onto the floor to fight it out to see which will take over the fourth play-off berth. The winners to join the finals and the loser eliminated.

The opening fixture will bring together Tillicums and Lake Hill, deadlocked in third place in the senior B league. They will be battling it out for possession of the third play-off berth. Tillicums have been showing decided improvement in recent games.

MAN'S SPAN OF LIFE IS 120

Dr. Robert G. Jackson Expects to Live That Long; Plans Home in Victoria

Man's normal span of life is 120 years—if he lives right.

This is the gospel of Dr. Robert G. Jackson, the healthiest man in Canada to-day, despite the fact that he is seventy-eight years of age.

He is in Victoria on his annual trip to the Coast telling people the secrets of perpetual youth.

"I hope to live to be 120—I may not—but I expect to," declared Dr. Jackson in an interview at the Empress Hotel this morning.

The Toronto health expert and former Victorian, had been unable to take his customary fourteen-mile walk before breakfast because of the numerous callers to see him and the fact that he had been in bed.

"If people would eat natural, vital and alkaline-forming foods, keep the skin in contact with environment and take plenty of exercise, they could feel as young as I do," Dr. Jackson said with conviction. He referred quizzically to "the sins of the fathers," as a handicap, but asserted that the great trouble of the present day was that people are not living right. "But they will, in time," he quickly added.

"In Great Britain, Germany and the United States they are bringing about a steady deterioration in diet," he said. "Health is a paramount question all over the world."

"Health is the greatest message to mankind to-day."

VICTORIA, CLEANEST CITY

Victoria is the cleanest city in Canada, because it is free of all the smoke and dirt of industrialism, states Dr. Jackson.

"When I came into the harbor yesterday I said to myself—why don't I come back to Victoria to live?"

Fifty years ago he was in business in Victoria.

"And I shall be inclined to build a home in Victoria," he said, "although my business necessitates me having my headquarters in the more populous east. I travel a great deal, however, and it would be possible for me to put part of the year here."

"While I was on my way west, about a week ago, I received a wire informing me that my newly-built country home at Ruge River, Ont., had been burned down. The thought occurred to me as I landed in this fresh and beautiful city—why not rebuild a smaller house on my estate at Ruge River and build a smaller house at about half the cost in Victoria." The Ruge River colonial house, the doctor admitted to questioning, cost $50,000.

EUROPEAN CRUSADE

Dr. Jackson, who has just completed a tour of the United States, plans to make a lecture tour of Great Britain this year. He expects to be in the United Kingdom during August, September and October. He will travel across the Atlantic in company with John Maxwell, an English vegetable restaurant proprietor and health disciple of Chicago.

The New Health Society organized by Sir Arbutnot Lane in England, he said, is making tremendous strides for health and longevity.

Dr. Jackson is still a stranger to underwear and overcoats. All he wears, even in the severest weather, is a shirt, collar and tie, tweed suit and socks and shoes.

KEEPING YOUNG has become an obsession with women. There is no labor they will not perform, no privation they will not endure, no suffering they will not gladly bear in their effort to outwit time. No compliment you can pay a woman gratifies her so much as to tell her that she looks like a girl. No remark would not rather be accused of than looking old.

But the trouble with these feminine Ponce de Leons is that they search for the Fountain of Perpetual Youth in the wrong places. They think to find it in beauty shops, but youth does not come put up in jars and bottles. It is a spring that bubbles up in the minds and hearts of people and it is fed by the soul, not by creams and lotions.

A woman, for instance, can dye her hair until it is the color of a girl's, but she cannot put a young girl's fresh beauty under it. She can have her face lifted until it is as smooth as a child's, but she cannot change the expression of age and experience in the eyes that look out of it. She can starve herself until she has a boyish figure, but she cannot make her old bones move with the lightness and swiftness of a flapper's.

And so, in the end, all of her work and worry and self-denial are in vain. After all, as a witty playwright says, you cannot change yesterday's cold mutton into to-day's lamb chop. And no women are more pathetic than those who acquire wrinkles trying to avoid them, and who grow old before their time working to keep young.

It is a pity that the women who expend so much effort and so many million dollars a year in vainly trying to get themselves rejuvenated do not know that there is a surefire remedy for age that never fails. That it consists in keeping young mentally, in keeping one's enthusiasm alive, in having as many interests in life as possible. It is not the hardening of the arteries that makes age. It is the hardening of the sympathies. For as long as these are flexible, as long as you can change your opinions and alter your habits or they snap with excitement over everything that is happening in this interesting old world, you are young, no matter how many candles you have on your birthday cake.

For proof of this you have only to observe how much younger intelligent people look than dull people do at the same age. Business and professional women rarely look their age. City women look younger than country women because their lives are more varied and exciting. Club women and women who have interesting outside of the home are still more girls, while their stay-at-home sisters have sunk into middle age.

It is a woman having her mind lifted and her ideas massaged by conflict with others, and her understanding stimulated, and her enthusiasms kindled up and restored to their normal color, that keeps her young. A vivid, entertaining, amusing woman who is up with the times is never old. It is the heavy, dull women who have never had a new idea in thirty years and whose sole conversation is about their grandchildren and their rheumatism who are old.

The only effectual wrinkle-remover is good nature. No astringent, no face massage, no massaging with an upward movement and a downward movement and a rotary movement is going to wipe out the tell-tale lines around the eyes and the mouth of the woman who is a worrier, or who is peevish and fretful or a nagger.

It is the amiable, sweet-tempered women, the women who think kind and generous thoughts, the women who have the courage to meet life as it comes and make the best of it who carry unmarked faces with them, sometimes to the grave.

In spite of all that mortal ingenuity can do to fend off age, it is bound to come at last, but if women would put as much salve on their dispositions as they put cold cream on their faces; if they would pluck out their bad faults as assiduously as they do their eyebrows; if they would cut and their fault-finding as religiously as they do the starches and the sweets, and if they made the same effort to keep their minds supple as they do their bodies, it would do more to keep them young than practicing their daily doses.

Uncle Wiggily's Lone-some Bear

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day when Uncle Wiggily was hopping around in the woods looking for an adventure he heard someone crying.

"Dear me!" said the kind old rabbit gentleman to himself. "This is very sad! Someone crying. I must see who it is and try to help them."

Uncle Wiggily was always like that - wanting to help. So he started toward the crying voice and then he stopped.

"This may be one of the Bad Chaps crying to fool me," he thought. He knew the Wolf or the Bob Cat often tricked him like that to get him. But as he stood behind a tree and listened, and the crying sounded lonely, Uncle Wiggily didn't believe it was one of the Bad Chaps. He would only make believe cry to catch me," he said. "And this is real crying. I'll see who it is so I can help them."

He hopped on a little farther - and he saw, sitting on a stump and crying, a shaggy bear, a big brown bear. The Bear's tears were dropping between the claws of his paws, and falling on the ground where they froze into little lumps of ice, for it was a cold day. Soon there was a little pile of round ice drops, like marbles, around the stump on which sat the crying bear.

Now Uncle Wiggily wasn't afraid of bears - for he had a very good friend - Mr. Stubbins - the father of Neddie Stubbins. Uncle Wiggily felt sure this Bear wouldn't harm him, so he called and asked:

"What's the matter? Why are you crying?"

The Bear lifted his head, dropped a few more frozen tears and said with a sort of sighing voice that was like turning somersaults:

"Oh, I am so lonesome!"

"Is that why you are crying, because you are lonesome?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes," answered the Bear, "that's why I'm very lonesome."

"Then dry your tears and come home with me," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am not a very rich rabbit, but I have a hollow stump bungalow a palace. But I'm sure you will not be lonesome if you come with me. I have forty eleven sixteen rabbits children besides my wife and Nurse Jane and there is so much going on in my bungalow you will never be lonesome and cry any more."

"Good!" said the Bear. So he got off the stump and shuffled through the snow (that being his way of walking) home with Uncle Wiggily.

When Mrs. Longears saw the big Bear her husband had brought home, she curd of his loneliness, the rabbit lady said:

"Wiggy, wherever shall we put him? The bungalow is hardly large enough for us as it is, and now with a Bear gentleman."

"Oh, he can sleep in the parlor," said the kind rabbit. "No one sleeps there. I can't turn him out now that I have brought him home."

"No," said Mrs. Longears. "you can't, I suppose he can sleep in the parlor if I move the phonograph and the piano and the chairs out of the way." This was done while Nurse Jane was getting supper. There was a little trouble about feeding the crying Bear, whose name was Mr. Bad. He took up so much room in the table he had to have a special meal all by himself. But bless your heart! He didn't mind that. He didn't feel lonesome any more and soon it was night and time for everybody to go to bed. The something very funny happened. I'll tell you about to-morrow night in the story Uncle Wiggily and the Jolly Bear. But please don't let the gas stove go to the movies without the coffee pot.

Harry Bridges, Militant Longshore Leader, Says Closing Order to Be Issued

Associated Press

San Francisco, Jan. 24.—A charge that a Pacific Coast waterfront lock-out would occur soon was made today by Harry Bridges, militant longshore leader, with Thomas O. Plant declaring the employers had complied with every provision of an arbitration award and agreements with labor.

Bridges, heading the so-called "left wing" of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, said the shipping interests will issue the closing order "some time today, to-morrow or Monday."

He appealed for a Congressional investigation of the situation immediately.

"It is a nation-wide conspiracy of waterfront employers, shippers and allied financial interest to wipe out the maritime unions of the Pacific Coast," Bridges declared.

"All we ask is that the unions keep this agreement," said Plant, president of the Waterfront Employers' Union.

"We have no contracts with the Maritime Federation. We deal with the old time, trustworthy American Federation of Labor Unions."

"There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the waterfront employers, but not to discuss Bridges' charges. We're going to consider how to make the unions observe their contracts."

Washington, Jan. 24 (Associated Press).—Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, started an investigation today of charges that shipowners were planning a lockout within the next few days.

Harry Bridges, San Francisco waterfront labor leader, made the charges in a telegram to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins.

McGrady immediately asked department agents on the west coast to investigate. He also planned to confer with steamship company officials.

Coincidentally, the Luckenbach Steamship Company demanded that the Labor Department take action to release the Jacob Luckenbach, tied up at Houston, Texas. The company refused to furnish steam for the vessel because they claimed non-union checkers were being employed in handling the cargo. The company maintained this was a violation of a recent mediation board agreement.
